

RALPH MCGILL The Chimps Are Ready, But—

Six chimpanzees are a source of dissent and some embarrassment to our harassed Mercury program. The chimps are in final training at Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico, for Mercury orbital flights. The plan was to send three together, each trained to perform certain mechanical operations. Each, of course, would be strapped to space flight couches and would have attached the same data-providing instruments worn by space men. The animals were scheduled to precede a manned flight about earth.

Now there is tremendous pressure, public and private, to eliminate the chimpanzees.

This could be a bit of folly.

Some of our serious thinkers say that to put the happy-grinning, cheerful chimps in flight after the Soviets have sent two men separately about the globe would subject us to ribald laughter and ridicule. They picture a whole world holding its sides and shaking in the manner of St. Nick in the Christmas poem.

They also anticipate Mr. Khrushchev issuing a statement saying that the United States hasn't the men to make an earth-girdling flight and sending congratulations to the chimps. The astronauts themselves are reported urging that the animals be eliminated and things made ready for man.

Mercury Capsule

It is expected that a decision to wash out the chimp orbit will be made after the Mercury-Atlas flight which now may be expected almost any day. It will, it is hoped, put an unmaned Mercury capsule once in orbit.

Such a test is necessary to determine whether the enlarged Mercury capsule can withstand the longer period of re-entry heat. This heat attains a state of 2,000 degrees, and re-entry after an earth orbit will be eight times longer than that experienced by Astronauts Shepard and Grissom on their suborbital journeys. A single pass about the earth lasts roughly 10 times as long as those of the two flights made from Canaveral.

The business of washing out the chimps because someone might laugh is an understandable reaction, but it does not make too much sense. If such an experience is desirable we should go ahead with it, no matter how much the critics would make of it.

The Soviets began with the larger, more powerful engines. They are well ahead of us. We have a wider variety of missiles, and are well able to take care of ourselves from a military point of view.

There is no need to sell ourselves short. What we do need to do is honestly face the fact that in the space race we are behind in testing and development. We should use the chimps if it makes sense to do so, or if the unmaned flight indicates the need for data which such an orbit would provide.

Critical Shot

The unmaned shot is a critical one for us. If it succeeds, then we almost surely will try to orbit a man not later than December. If it fails, then it will be well into 1962 before an American can be put into flight about earth. If it succeeds, then the plan is to go ahead with one or two more, also unmaned. One of these was scheduled to carry the chimps. Laughter may ban them. This is not good thinking. What we are after is the last laugh.

Our experts fret about the Atlas. It has failed in three or four previous tests. Each time the flaw was a small one, impossible to detect. The wonder is that any missile functions, requiring as it does the perfect operation of thousands of precision components, many of them minute, all of them complex. The failures each provide information which makes corrections possible.

The Atlas booster now produces a thrust of 360,000 pounds. Should it fail in the upcoming test, directors of the Mercury project would have to try once more or switch to the Titan, a more powerful intercontinental missile. But this would certainly postpone any real chance at a manned orbit into 1963. Hence, the great hope the Atlas will, after what has been learned in three failures, prove itself to be a reliable workhorse in space.

Reds Fire Bombs 5, 6 In Arctic

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia set off two more nuclear blasts Sunday. One was equal to several million tons of TNT, by far the most powerful blast of the current series.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced about 3:45 p.m. that the Russians had exploded a "several megaton" atomic blast in the Arctic.

Then shortly before 11 p.m. the agency announced another

Arctic test. It described the blast as being in the low to intermediate kiloton range—equal to thousands of tons of TNT.

Both explosions took place in the atmosphere near Novaya Zemlya, where Russia previously has tested large nuclear devices.

The blasts were the fifth and sixth since Russia resumed nuclear testing Sept. 1.

There was immediate speculation that the large detonation represented a major step toward developing triggers for the 100 megaton bomb Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has threatened to build.

The AEC declined to say whether Sunday's "several megaton"

It was the largest and most spirited demonstration of open opposition to the regime of Fidel Castro here since he came to power.

Late Sunday night, after the demonstration had been broken up, groups of people were still ranging through the center of the city crying out "Cuba yes, Russia no" and "Viva La Libertad."

PROCESSION CANCELED

In turn, groups of pro-Castro demonstrators were converging on the square in front of the presidential palace.

The occasion for the outburst, participated in by middle and working class Havana dwellers, with many young people in the crowd, was a canceled procession in honor of the Virgin of Charity, patron saint of Cuba.

The traditional procession was put off until Sunday, although the feast day falls on Sept. 8.

BISHOP REFUSED

The government refused to give permission for it to be held in the afternoon, as is traditional, and told the pastor of the Church of Charity, Bishop Eduardo Roza Masvidal, that it must be held before 9 in the morning.

Bishop Boza, who formerly was rector of Villanueva University, now closed by the government, refused to hold it at that hour, and canceled the procession.

Nevertheless, by 4 p.m., despite repeated warnings over radio and television that a procession would be illegal and that people would go at their own risk, crowds began to gather.

Record 144,555 Qualify To Vote on Wednesday

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A record 144,555 persons are qualified to cast ballots in Wednesday's primary for selection of 25 candidates from a field of 66 seeking to fill contested posts in Atlanta's city election.

The primary will be the biggest in Atlanta's history. It also will be the hardest to predict, according to veteran observers.

Election experts refuse to be pinned down. Many factors contribute to the confusion and lack of definite pattern.

A major one is the five-cornered race for mayor with veteran Mayor William B. Hartsfield occupying the sidelines for the first time since 1936. This is reflected in some of the other races since the aldermanic board is on its own with Hartsfield sitting it out. This means there is no one man on whom to focus blame for any shortcomings and no one incumbent to claim credit for all the good which candidates traditionally cite.

Nomination of a mayor, 17 aldermen (two from each of the eight wards plus a president of the board); nine members of the PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Former U.S. Sen. Theodore Francis Green, oldest man at 93 to serve in the U.S. Senate, was placed in an oxygen tent Sunday at Jane Brown Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Green's condition "remains fair."

His name has been on the danger list for the past two days.

Green is suffering from a heart block, discovered Friday when he entered the hospital for a checkup. He served in the Senate for 23 years.

Carla's Refugees Swarm to Safety

By ROBERT E. FORD

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Up from the Gulf of Mexico coast they swarmed inland Sunday — perhaps the greatest flight in American history.

Bumper-to-bumper, begging for a hotel room and jamming grocery stores for food to carry them just a little farther, they fled.

CARLA BEARS DOWN

They were the refugees from Hurricane Carla, a huge and terrifying storm that bore down on the low-lying coastal plain with its smashing winds and deadly tides.

They fled in swank, air-conditioned automobiles, tail fins flying high.

They chugged along in battered vehicles of ancient vintage. And some, like Floyd Herbert, who owns no vehicle, huddled his little family of four into a school building in Port Arthur because he couldn't flee.

The Red Cross called it "the greatest evacuation of persons in the face of a national calamity in modern times."

CONSERVATIVE FIGURE

The Red Cross estimated more than 300,000 persons left the coast in Louisiana and Texas seeking shelter elsewhere. Reporters traveling against this great tide said the Red Cross figures seemed conservative.

The first movement came from the low, long islands along Texas' shore early Saturday.

The surge became overwhelming by noon when authorities told the 135,000 persons in the Port Arthur area near the Louisiana line to get out—if only to Beaumont, 20 miles away and 15 feet higher.

A vast migration then began

Tornado Kills Baby, Injures 50

KAPLAN, La., (AP)—A giant tornado given birth by hurricane Carla twisted into Kaplan, a rice and dairy center in south Louisiana Sunday. It killed a four-week-old boy and injured 50 others.

The black funnel hit in late afternoon. One of those admitted to the Kaplan hospital was seriously hurt.

Sheriff O. V. Moss from nearby Abbeville said escaping gas from broken mains posed another threat to the town of 5,267, located only 30 miles from Louisiana's Gulf of Mexico coastline.

The tornado was one of several spawned in south Louisiana by Carla, which slammed into the Texas-Louisiana coasts with winds of 100 miles per hour.

The tornado cut a two-mile path from east to west as it howled into Kaplan and skipped across two blocks in the heart of the business district.

The twister reportedly damaged 150 homes, tossed parts of houses into the streets and threw furniture everywhere. State Police said 150 homes were blown down or demolished.

Walkout at GM Here Still Under Discussion

Whether General Motors workers in Atlanta would strike Monday morning was still an undecided question late Sunday night as union and company officials still debated local contract problems.

At Chevrolet, Fisher Body and the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly plants, union officers and company officials were still trying to decide local issues—parade among which was the question of relief time from the moving assembly lines.

CONTRACT SIGNED

Workers at the Chevrolet Parts Warehouse in Doraville have signed a contract, company officials said Sunday night.

Workers at the B-O-P plant went out on an unauthorized strike last Thursday, but came back to work Friday. They say their main bone of contention with the company is the lack of enough relief workers. This lack, they say, keeps a man on the line for long periods without relief for any personal reasons.

Meanwhile, in Detroit, company and union officials met until late Sunday night to try to work out the demands of plant level contracts, but GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton said it was almost impossible to wrap up all of them before the strike deadline of 10 a.m. Monday.

FREE TO STRIKE

Local union leaders representing 310,000 workers at 130 GM plants have been told they are free to strike Monday morning if they still have any unresolved disputes. Only about one-fifth of the GM plants from coast to coast reported settlements of local contract matters Sunday night. These plants employ about 45,000 workers but few are key installations. No assembly plants and only two body plants had reached agreement.

Seaton entered negotiations with UAW President Walter P. Reuther Sunday convinced the outlook for complete agreement was "pretty remote."

After meeting with Reuther for several hours, Seaton seemed CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI). Hurricane Carla, one of the biggest in history, hurled 100-mile-an-hour winds against the mid-Texas Gulf Coast early Monday after spawning a killer tornado in Louisiana.

Gusts up to 113 miles an hour were recorded unofficially as the tremendous tropical storm, packing 150-mile-an-hour winds at its center, aimed its full fury at the area directly north of Corpus Christi.

TIDAL FLOODS

Winds up to 90 miles an hour raked the coast northward into Louisiana, sending tidal flood waters as deep as 12 feet into cities and towns all but deserted in a mass evacuation unparalleled in American history.

A tornado born of Carla ripped into the coastal town of Kaplan, La., killing a 4-week-old infant and injuring 50 other persons. Another twister damaged buildings in Morgan City, La.

The Weather Bureau, revising its forecast as Carla moved to within 120 miles east of Corpus Christi, said it would hit full force between Port Aransas, Tex., and Matagorda Bay, Tex., the center of a 300-mile hurricane warning area between Corpus Christi and Grand Isle, La.

Carla was picking up speed as it neared shore and was traveling northwesterly at 10 miles an hour at 11 p.m. Sunday. Forecasters warned it would punch inland for 100 miles with undiminished power bring eight to 15 inches of rain with it.

Galveston, Port Arthur, Texas City, Freeport and other major centers as well as towns and villages in Carla's path were badly flooded.

GALVESTON WAIST-DEEP

Water was reported as deep as eight feet in nearly-deserted Texas City. Galveston was waist-deep in water in several areas and the island city was totally cut off.

Piers, shacks, camp structures and motel buildings were smashed to pieces or flicked into the sea to be splintered by roaring waves.

Damage was expected to be tremendous, both to property and to crops. The exodus of more than 300,000 people from the Texas and Hurricane Carla, on the rampage on the Gulf coast, will have no effect on Atlanta and vicinity's weather for the next two days.

The weatherman said Monday would start with considerable cloudiness, but the two days would otherwise be partly cloudy and warm, with a few isolated afternoon showers both days.

Low Monday morning will be 68, rising to 85 in the afternoon and dropping to 70 Monday night. High Tuesday will be 85.

Atlanta's extremes Sunday were 67 and 83.

How to Make Better Grades

Good Tools, Techniques Lead Way To Making Books Work for You

By BERNICE McCULLAR

Director of Information, State Department of Education

Learning is a lonesome thing.

Dr. J. Lloyd Trump in his booklet "Image of the Future" suggests for modern schools a design by which 40 per cent of the school day would be for large groups that teachers would lecture or demonstrate to, 20 per cent for small discussion groups in which the students might sit around with their minds unbuttoned and discuss their ideas about the subject, and 40 per cent for lonesome learning, that which the student would do on his own.

Second of a series.

If you are going to study responsibly and independently, you have to have tools and techniques.

What would a doctor do without a stethoscope, a scalpel and a thermometer? Think how inadequate a farmer would be without a plow or a tractor and a carpenter without a hammer and saw. You need learning tools and rules if you are going to make the most of your mind and get good grades in school.

Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard, who has been studying American schools, recommends at least 15 hours of homework a week. That's three hours a school night. If you skip Friday for the game or a date you must spread your homework over the weekend. You can stuff still more studying into the little cracks of time you could find in any day of your life if you looked for them: riding the bus, waiting for the dentist, meeting your date.

What tools do you need for study?

1. A PLACE TO STUDY—Have a regular place to study and study at the same place every time. That conditions your mind to think "study" when you get there. It's good to have a room of your own. But you can study, even on the kitchen table if that's the only place there is.

Khrushchev Has Hope for Berlin Talks

By THEODORE SHABAD
(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Sunday that he saw an "encouraging glimmer of hope" for negotiations in the Berlin crisis.

The Soviet leader declared in a speech at Stalingrad that President John F. Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were known to favor talks in the current East-West tension over the future status of West Berlin and the signing of a peace treaty with East Germany.

JOIN U.S., BRITAIN

Khrushchev added that President Charles de Gaulle of France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany who, the Soviet Premier said, had previously been identified with opponents of talks were now also speaking for negotiations.

"We have always offered peace talks," Khrushchev said. "And if the Western statesmen heeded the voice of reason there would be no acute international tension now, there would be no war psychosis that now prevails in the West."

The Premier described his remarks, made at the formal inauguration of the Stalin hydro-electric station on the Volga River, as an extension of his speech last Friday at a Soviet-Indian friendship meeting.

WOULD AGREE—IF

On that occasion he made it clear that he would agree to negotiations only if they were held soon and would result in a peace treaty with Germany and the establishment of West Berlin as a demilitarized free city.

The Western powers repeatedly have refused to sign a treaty that would formalize the division of Germany or change the present occupation status of West Berlin.

Although he laid stress Sunday on the outlook for negotiations, the Soviet Union has stepped up in recent days a military program designed to meet what Russians consider threats of war from the West.

Saturday Khrushchev rejected a proposal by Kennedy and Macmillan for a ban on nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Early Sunday Warsaw Treaty countries, the East European counterpart of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, declared they would strengthen their defenses.

At the same time the Soviet Union announced a new series of test flights of improved carrier rockets into a central Pacific impact area. Although the rockets were identified with use in space exploration, their ability to carry nuclear warheads added military significance to the tests.

In his speech Sunday Khrushchev took issue with several points made by De Gaulle in a news conference last Tuesday. The French President said the Soviet Union had agreed at Potsdam in 1945 to the present status of West Berlin. The general charged that the Soviet Union was planning an "arbitrary and artificial" crisis over Berlin to divert attention from "the domestic unrest."

Khrushchev asserted the Soviet Union had never agreed to let the West convert West Berlin "into a base of sabotage and espionage." He used this charge as justification for the plan to demilitarize Berlin and for East Germany's recent closing of the border between the city's East and West sectors.

The Soviet Premier also denied that pressure for a German peace treaty was new. He said the Russians had called for a settlement as early as 1952.

In reply to De Gaulle's call for force if necessary in the Berlin crisis and his prediction that the Soviet regime would disintegrate in face of war, Khrushchev cited a Russian proverb, "Hungry folks dream of chicken."

North Carolina Girl Begins Her Reign as Miss America

By DORMAN CORDELL

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A former Radio City Rockette from North Carolina, who admits that she is a ham, began her reign Sunday as Miss America of 1962.

Maria Beale Fletcher, 19, of Asheville, was radiant as she appeared at a press conference Sunday morning, a few hours after she had won the crown which sent her on the road to a year of glamour and financial reward.

"I didn't know whether I was dreaming or not when I woke up this morning," she said. "I got a paper downstairs to convince myself that it wasn't a dream."

The new Miss America said she "slept like a log for about five hours" after winning her title.

Miss Fletcher was asked if all the attention from photographers and constant requests to smile bothered her. She replied, "I think all of us are blessed with a little bit of ham. I have just a little bit more than most. I don't mind smiling at all."

Miss Fletcher said she had received a number of wires from members of the Radio City Rockettes. The 1960 high school graduate was a member of the Rockettes from last December until she quit in May to go home and compete in the Miss North Carolina pageant.

She said many telegrams also had arrived from North Carolinians, including one from Gov. Terry Sanford.

Miss America said her reaction at winning the nation's oldest crown of beauty was "just very happy and very honored and very thrilled."

She said she had entered the final night of competition without worry. "I felt I had done the best I could, and whatever would be, would be," she said.

The new title is five feet, five and a half inches tall. Her measurements, which won a preliminary swimsuit contest for her in the pageant, are 35-24-35. She weighs 118 pounds, has brown hair and hazel eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beale Fletcher, her parents, were present Saturday night.

Maria said her two sisters Margaret, 17, and Bonnie, 10, and her brother, Walter, 9, watched the pageant on television at Asheville.

Miss Fletcher said her childhood was "just like any other child's—nothing really unusual about it." However, she said she had been interested in the field of entertainment since she was about eight years old.

The interest perhaps could be traced to her parents, who were professional dancers and now run a dancing school in Asheville. Miss Fletcher said she would like to use her $10,000 scholarship to study some field of entertainment, perhaps at the Pasadena Playhouse in California.

Besides the scholarship, Miss America will get about $75,000 plus expenses for personal appearances during the year.

She said she has "romantic interests but not in one specific place." She added, "I'll be interested in marriage when the right boy and I get together and decide we're ready for marriage."

She will make her first public appearance as Miss America at the Air Force Association convention in Philadelphia Sept. 21-23.

Poland Mobilizing For Crisis

By ARTHUR J. OLSEN

(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.)
WARSAW—Wladyslaw Gomułka, the Communist chief of Poland, announced Sunday what appeared to be the partial mobilization of the Polish armed forces.

The first secretary of the Polish United Workers (Communist) Party told a rain-soaked crowd of 60,000 that Poland had joined its Warsaw Pact partners in "raising the combat readiness of the Polish army."

Troop units and transports of arms were already on the move, he said, and "you will see many more."

CALLUP OF RESERVES

The partial mobilization, which has been imminent for the past 10 days, seems to involve a freeing of servicemen already in uniform, the callup of many reserves and a radical stepup in field training.

So far there has been no hard evidence of army units leaving their garrisons to deploy in battle order.

An informed guess here is that Gomułka's reference to troops on the move pointed to a crash schedule of combat training rather than field mobilization.

Independent observers judge the Polish army of 225,000 men, organized in 12 to 14 divisions, to be in less than peak condition.

HINT OF RATIONING

Gomułka coupled his preparedness announcement with a warning that "more social discipline" would be demanded of the population and a hint that food rationing might return to Poland if the current war scare run on the stores continues.

He said that the overrated danger of war would come in December when the German peace treaty would be signed. This is believed to be the first assertion by a responsible Communist leader that the German treaty, promised by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to be signed before the end of the year, would be delayed until December.

The Communist leader spoke at the annual Harvest Festival, a scarcely recognizable remnant of the traditional party given by feudal lords for their peasantry after the harvest was in. Lowering skies, somber words, and the noticeable presence of uniformed men in the crowd dampened the spirit of what is normally a carefree occasion.

SECRET MEETING

Gomułka's announcement of military measures was foreshadowed in the communique issued early Sunday following a two-day secret meeting here of the defense ministers and staff chiefs of the Warsaw Pact nations.

The communique said the military leaders of the Soviet-organized alliance "considered concrete measures in connection with the strengthening of combat readiness."

Actor Leo Carrillo Dies of Cancer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Leo Carrillo, a movie star for three decades who made his biggest hit as the lovable Pancho of television's Cisco Kid series, died Sunday of cancer. He was 81.

The end came at the Mexican-style ranch house where Carrillo had lived with his daughter, Antoinette. His wife, Edith, died in 1953 after 40 years of marriage.

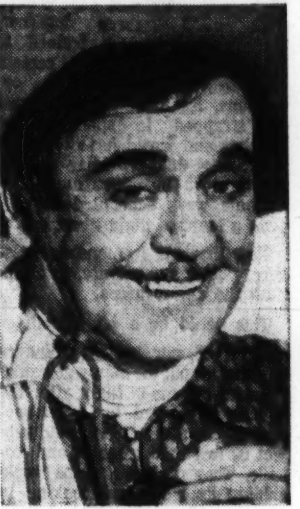

Carrillo had been in a coma for several days and his physician, Dr. Albert Kosky, said he passed away peacefully.

He had battled the encroaching disease for years since he was first operated on. He spent 3 1/2 hours in surgery in September 1959.

Born in Los Angeles, Carrillo was a newspaper cartoonist before turning actor in his early 20s. He played in vaudeville, toured with stock companies and appeared on Broadway before he turned to Hollywood and movie roles.

In early years he specialized in Spanish and Italian roles, but finally became typed as a hard-riding Spaniard of the border days. His trademarks were a flat-brimmed sombrero and carefully waxed mustache.

Carrillo appeared in hundreds of silent movies, short subjects and talkies. He made more than 150 of the Cisco Kid TV films—costarring as Pancho, the Western Robin Hood's fat, funny sidekick—from 1949 to 1955.

Army Peace Corps Endorsed by Stahr

By JACK RAYMOND

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The secretary of the Army has warmly endorsed a proposal by Army staff officers to create special, all-purpose military units that could be sent to underdeveloped countries all over the world to help in peacetime projects as well as bolster defenses.

The plan constitutes in effect a military counterpart to the civilian controlled and manned Peace Corps. The Army units, however, would specialize in assistance to countries in danger of Communist aggression.

PENTAGON SILENT

It is one of the most secret proposals at the Pentagon, and when word of it leaked in a published press report early in the summer, officials refused to discuss it. The refusal was reiterated Sunday, although many of the details can now be disclosed since Army officials have publicly mentioned the proposal.

Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr referred to the plan during a speech at the annual meeting of the Association of the Army last week. Lieut. Gen. Barksdale Hamlett, deputy chief of staff for military operations, disclosed some of the details at a panel meeting of the association, which is composed of Army supporters.

PICK, SHOVEL WORK

In summary, the plan calls for dispatching "specially tailored" military units with men having skills in civil engineering, public health, transportation and communications to any underdeveloped country requesting assistance.

These units would be organized as part of special divisions that would be based in convenient locations, one for the Caribbean area, one for the Middle East and one for the Far East. Some military men refer to the divisions as "flag divisions."

In peacetime, these units would work on major projects. The members would do the actual pick and shovel work, for example, as well as supervise manual labor. Government buildings, small, and how to build your own entire railroad spurs might be built, by U.S. troops.

Local workers would be taught how to handle work implements and how to build their own entire projects or complete the projects started for them.

"This is the same old story of newspapers attacking TV," Paar said, adding: "I'm not surprised that they make up news, but I am surprised to hear that senators spent 30 minutes Friday discussing this matter solely on the report of one reporter."

"Why? Perhaps an answer is, as one of the members of our group said, senators like publicity just like anyone else—and nothing would please them more than conducting a headline investigation of me."

The Army removed one officer—Lt. Col. Dallas Hoadley of Baltimore—from his post for "improper performance of duty" and admonished a second—Col. J. R. Deane Jr. of San Francisco—for "exercising poor judgment" in providing the troops filmed by Paar.

Paar was quoted as saying the Army has been working in cooperation with many other television shows in the past few months in Berlin.

"Not one thing that we did or that the Army did was improper," he said. "No pull was used, political or any other kind, to get Army cooperation."

The National Broadcasting Co. said the controversial Berlin sequence would be shown on the Paar program Tuesday.

U.S. Ship Fights Hurricane Betsy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Coast Guard weather ship near the eye of hurricane Betsy is plying through 70-mile-an-hour winds "without any trouble at all," the Coast Guard announced Sunday.

It said the USS Half Moon, a reconvened seaplane tender with a 135-man crew, was reporting Betsy's progress at ocean station Delta.

A spokesman said the 311-foot vessel is equipped to withstand seas whipped by 100-mile-an-hour winds.

Farm Officials Gathering To Study U.S. Lending

Three U.S. Department of Agriculture officials will be on hand Monday through Wednesday to speak to about 50 Farmers Home Administration officials here on expanded federal credit opportunities.

Meeting at the Biltmore Hotel, farm credit leaders from seven Southeastern states will study new U.S. legislation regarding Farmers Home Administration loans.

John A. Baker, director of agricultural credit services for the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Howard Bertsch, F.H.A. national administrator, and Floyd F. Higbee, deputy Farmers Home Administration administrator will explain to the group how recent legislation has broadened the rural housing loan program to include all families in rural areas needing better housing but unable to obtain financing through conventional means.

Some of the things the new legislation provides: farm operating loan limits raised to $35,000; loans on farms with a total indebtedness of less than $60,000 for use in buying or enlarging farms and extension of credit to small farmers for enlargement of their holdings.

Convince Reds Bomb Coming To Halt War Talk, U.S. Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Soviet Union believed that the United States was prepared to use nuclear weapons, the Red drive against Berlin could be stopped short of war, a National Planning Association report said Sunday.

"In contemplating political and conventional means to force us out of Berlin, Soviet evaluation of the probable U.S. reaction will be a major, and probably the decisive, factor in their decision to proceed," the report said.

NUCLEAR QUESTION

"Will the United States initiate a nuclear war if the Soviets move against Berlin?" is the main question the Soviets have to answer, according to the NPA.

"If it is not credible to the Soviets that we would initiate a nuclear war in retaliation to their efforts to strangle Berlin into submission, they will not be deterred by our nuclear capability," the report said.

But, the report continued, if Moscow becomes convinced that this nation might be expected to strike with atomic power "a substantial deterrence will have been established" against the Reds' Berlin take-over plans.

The Berlin problem was mentioned in a 62-page document on the general question of "where we stand on national defense." It was prepared for NPA's international committee by Franklin A. Lindsay, who has served on the Gaither Committee and other groups which have studied U.S. defense needs.

URGES SAFEGUARD

Lindsay, now executive vice president of the Itel Corp., urged a series of measures to protect U.S. nuclear forces and to safeguard the American people through an adequate fallout shelter program.

The report called for placing underground fixed intercontinental missile sites, rapid completion of production for mobile missile systems such as the submarine-fired Polaris and the Minuteman, an airborne alert for a substantial part of the strategic bomber force, development of a capability to spot Soviet missile and bomber positions and other moves.

President John F. Kennedy already has taken a number of steps to carry out these objectives.

Questioned by a reporter, John F. Miller, executive secretary of the NPA, acknowledged that the Kennedy administration has moved along the lines proposed in the Lindsay report. The NPA is a nongovernment, privately financed research organization.

Although the United States is in process of putting missiles underground and providing mobile land and sea rocket launching systems, Lindsay said, "It will not be until after 1963 that a significant part of our strength will be protected from a surprise Soviet attack."

Because of this lack of protection for the bomber and missile forces of both sides, Lindsay said the west and the Communist bloc appear to be heading into a period of great instability in their relations.

"Thus," he said, "there may be a temporary incentive to the Soviets to strike during a period of relative superiority and during a

AT ATLANTIC CITY Miss Georgia Glad Dixie Belle Won

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Glenda Lee Brunson of Savannah, Georgia's contribution to the Miss America pageant, expressed delight Sunday that a Southern belle—Miss North Carolina—won the national contest.

Glenda, who was eliminated in the closing night competition at the pageant here, said, "I'm really pleased with the outcome and that a Southern belle got in."

Maria Fletcher's win means there will be one less aboard a special train which will bring Glenda, Miss South Carolina and Miss Florida down the eastern seaboard to their homes.

Maria was to join the other girls for a five-day trip which begins Monday and includes stops at Annapolis, Md., Washington, and Florida.

"We'll miss her, but naturally we'll go on with the trip," Glenda said.

They left by bus at 3 p.m. today and were scheduled to stay overnight in New York City, then leave aboard the train Monday.

Glenda refused to say who she thought would win the contest in advance, but she said "the competition was very great. I think we pretty much kept our individual choice of a winner to ourselves."

Looking back over the grueling week, Glenda summed it up: "I have really enjoyed it. It's a week I'll never forget."

Voters Will Be Offered Distractions but We Believe Ivan Allen Offers Greatness

The significant part of the campaign for mayor is finished.

Of course these last two days before Wednesday's voting will generate a lot of heat. Candidates who are running behind are making abrupt claims, inviting sudden divisions and hoping to cast trick disenchantments on supporters of their opponents.

So this probably is the poorest time of the campaign to judge the candidates. Reliable enlightenment will be hard to find in the desperate, closing speeches. None of these men are likely at this stage to make sudden disclosures that reveal them to be any better, or their opponents any worse, than they have been all along. And Atlanta knows the five men pretty well now.

Our judgment is that Ivan Allen Jr. would make the best mayor. We believe he has the potential to be a great one. We recommend him strongly for the office because we judge him to be equipped best to meet Atlanta's principal challenges, which are:

—Growth, which will bring in jobs—good jobs—for our workers;

—Economy, which will assure that the taxpayer's dollar is handled with care and without waste;

—Pride, which springs from Atlanta's practice of fairness and decency toward its citizens of all races and classes no matter how difficult the stress; —And greatness, which a city cannot attain without a gifted and vigorous leader whose vision exceeds the adequate and pursues the excellent.

If we as individual citizens of Atlanta cast our votes for smaller reasons than these, we will simply be distracting ourselves from the challenges that a greater city requires us to answer.

But if we choose to meet the challenge of greatness, The Constitution believes the opportunity to lead can be passed with confidence into the hands of Ivan Allen Jr.

Mentally Ill Youths Get Bum Deal

If your child is mentally disturbed, he or she will have to wait until age 21 before the state will provide the necessary treatment.

The Milledgeville State Hospital is too overcrowded to accept anyone except adults.

Gracewood takes only the mentally retarded and there is always a long waiting list.

Dr. Bernard Holland, chairman of Emory University's department of psychiatry, said about 25 per cent of inmates at the Girls Training School at Adamsville are mentally disturbed or retarded rather than merely delinquent. They need treatment but there is no place to put them.

This is a horrible condition and the people of Georgia should be ashamed of it.

If Dobbins Can Serve, Millions Will Be Saved

Atlanta is grateful to Gov. Vandiver for putting his weight behind the move to use Dobbins Air Force Base as terminal for a new—perhaps international—jet airport here. If it is practical and if the airport will not have military uses, this would indeed save millions of dollars. It has fine runways and at present is used by the military on a limited basis.

If Atlanta's potential as an air transport center is to be realized, it must have a new airport in the near future. This is in the national interest as well as that of the region and state. But why spend millions on expensive new runways when splendid unused facilities are available?

The governor seems to mean business in launching Georgia into the space age.

Why You Don't Get Money's Worth

Latest figures from the U.S. Commerce Department's Atlanta field office show Georgia ranks 18th in the nation in the amount of state taxes collected. Considerably more, however, will be needed in the years ahead if the state is to meet its commitments, the ever-increasing demand for essential services and if it is to add to its economy at full speed.

While it's good to see Georgia in the top 15 in state revenue, there is great discomfort in realizing that under the traditional pattern taxpayers do not get their money's worth. They have come closer to it than they have in some time under the administration of Gov. Vandiver, a man who says "No" to pork barrel politicians and who keeps a close watch on expenditures.

But there is built-in waste, in addition to the kind that a Griffin-type governor has. The foundation stones upon which the rocks of accepted, annual waste are firmly entrenched is the county unit system.

Because of county unit politics, consolidation of counties that are uneconomic units of government is resisted successfully.

Education receives approximately 60 per cent of your state tax dollar. Georgia is third from the top in the nation in state support in this field but remains near the bottom in local effort. Schools are not consolidated at the rate they should be. County lines form a barricade to a more efficient, economical educational system.

Sufficient heat is not put on to remedy these defects because they go hand-in-hand with the way the county unit system of government operates.

State administrations have built miles and miles of roads, too frequently the tissue-paper kind, as a sop to county unit bosses instead of on the basis of real need.

An honest governor can, as Vandiver has, do much to cut out waste in purchasing and other fields. But the built-in waste will remain as long as Georgia labors under the county unit system. It is the root of why you don't get your money's worth from your tax dollar.

BILL HARRELL.

If Man Begins to Eye His Neighbor...

Anticommunism has two parts. Drop either one and it is worthless as a clock with one hand. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has re-emphasized both parts.

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia had called McNamara before his Committee on Armed Services to tell why Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker was rebuked and relieved of command.

Some politicians who lacked Russell's regard for facts had claimed Walker was mistreated because he was anti-Communist. McNamara left them looking pretty silly. He revealed that Walker not only had called men like Harry Truman "pink" but had tried to influence his troops to vote for certain congressional candidates in the 1960 election. Any congressman who tries to defend the general's judgment as being effective anticommunism, as Georgia Rep. James C. Davis has done, must expect to have his own judgment examined.

McNamara spelled out the two parts of anticommunism while stating the American policy on troop indoctrination.

"Our fighting men should know the positive values of the freedoms which the nation is calling them to defend," he said—and that is one part—"and the nature of Soviet communism which seeks to take them away." That is the other part.

"I believe we suffered during the Korean war because we did not stress with sufficient force and vigor the realities of freedom and communism," McNamara said, again stating both parts of the matter.

"The military establishment is an instrument, not a shaper, of national policy," McNamara said. "Its members . . . do not have the right to use the military establishment to advance partisan concepts or alter the decisions of the elected representatives of the people."

"Our troops are not going to have very much confidence in an educational program on communism which is coupled with partisan observations that properly belong in another forum," McNamara said.

Neither are the American people going to have much confidence in that kind of anticommunism. And there is too much of it. Some of our professional and semipro anti-Communists should get back to the lesson Gen. Walker forgot.

There are two parts to anticommunism, and respect for our free democratic institutions is one of them.

McNamara aptly quoted the late Judge Learned Hand: "I believe that the community is already in process of dissolution where each man begins to eye his neighbor as a possible enemy, where nonconformity with the accepted creed, political as well as religious, is a mark of disaffection; where denunciation, without specification or backing, takes the place of evidence. . . ."

Russell Will Help Stop Military Row

WASHINGTON—Southern conservative senators are preparing to give a decent burial to a nasty row involving the high military. It is a row which if not thus quietly put to rest could vastly harm this country's defense structure. These men of great usefulness and great responsibility are Sens. Richard B. Russell of Georgia and John C. Stennis of Mississippi. Russell is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Stennis is one of its most influential members.

This committee is now making a preliminary inquiry to determine whether there should be an all-out "investigation" of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina that military officers are being "gagged" for being too vocally anti-Communist.

Those willing to follow the unavoidable complexities of this singular tale may be more able, at the end, to understand why calm Southern conservatives of the Russell-Stennis stamp are so indispensable to any Democratic White House, however liberal.

These are precisely the men who will stand most steadfastly, and most effectively, for such a President on issues where mere emotionalism threatens to provoke dangerous disarray within the very American government itself.

The present issue is just such an issue. It is a contest between the clashing extremist views of two, other, and wholly untypical, Southern senators, Thurmond and J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas. Thurmond is so ultra-conservative as to make Russell and Stennis seem almost liberal. Fulbright actually votes most of the time at least as conservatively as do Russell and Stennis.

Nevertheless, most of the ultra-liberals here in their insatiable wisdom have long since adopted Fulbright as their hero.

Thurmond, himself a reserve major general, believes the military can hardly do any wrong.

Some time ago Fulbright sent a "confidential" memorandum to the Defense Department complaining that high officers were promoting "radical right-wing" ideas. There followed a Pentagon order cutting down the participation of officers in political discussions.

But in the meantime, Fulbright's "confidential" memo had found its way into the papers. Thurmond raised a mighty howl that Fulbright's communication had led to the "muzzling" of officers.

If Fulbright's memo had not leaked out, no harm would have been done. For Defense Secretary Robert McNamara already was finding a quiet means of keeping officers out of extremist politics without downgrading their right—and duty—to be profoundly anti-Communist.

But once Thurmond and Fulbright got into a public hullabaloo, only one way out was left. This was to let Russell and Stennis move in. They won't "white-wash" anything. They won't hide anything. But, depend upon it, they (and such conservative Republican associates as Sen. Everett Stalton of Massachusetts) will put a stop to this mess.

They will calmly and effectively settle it, away from spotlights and headlines, in a way fair to both sides and, above all, to prevent throwing the whole military establishment into a destructive and useless row.

For the minds of men like Russell and Stennis are more than merely decent. These are responsible minds, minds aware that people in high political station owe the deepest obligation not to let their private likes and dislikes foul up the Pentagon.

He Suggests Universities Raise Standards In Order To Improve High School Systems

Emory-at-Oxford — Money is not the cure which we are led to believe it is, and there is little proof that it is needed in the large doses which are sought by the proponents of federal aid to education. Money would be spent on better physical facilities and increased teachers' salaries. It is not desperately needed here.

There happen to be quite reliable sources which indicate that not only is there no great classroom shortage, but also that there will be no such shortage, if the construction rate of the past few years is continued. The vast majority of this construction, incidentally, was sponsored by local school boards.

Generally speaking, teachers' salaries are high enough, quite high, indeed, considering that the recipients are the educationist graduates of the professional schools of methodology which, regardless of their own high self-estimates, are the real blight on the academic landscape. And what I have just said touches on the actual problems of moral decay and intellectual stagnation which infect our public schools. Why give large salaries (or much respect) to teachers trained exhaustively in method but quite uninterested in subject matter, who are materially inclined, not intellectually inclined, whose deepest draught of literature comes when they read Time magazine?

The conservative opinion (Russell Kirk, National Review, Sen. Goldwater) is that federal aid is very definitely a potential corruptor of the sense of responsibility. But this aside, how will that admittedly corrupt local self-interest be cured by federal aid? Perhaps it exists mainly in the older members of the citizenry and can be expected to die out shortly. But can the children be brought up under a paternalistic federal government which seems to dole out money in proportion to sloth-induced indigence and yet retain any sense of responsibility? One of my colleagues likes to refer jestingly to such schemes of his as this with the phrase "dewey-eyed socialism." I heartily agree with him, but not in jest.

The problems of the public schools of this nation are poor educational philosophy and practice, and the corruption of local school boards. In the fight over federal aid, however, the first is lost sight of and the second is given an unproportionate degree of attention. The conservative offers the following solution.

In order to raise the standards of inferior school systems presently suffering from this poor educational philosophy and practice, and the corruption of local school boards, in the fight over federal aid, however, the first is lost sight of and the second is given an unproportionate degree of attention. The conservative offers the following solution.

In order to raise the standards of inferior school systems presently suffering from this poor educational philosophy and practice, and the corruption of local school boards, in the fight over federal aid, however, the first is lost sight of and the second is given an unproportionate degree of attention. The conservative offers the following solution.

sure must be put on them by refusing to admit their graduates, assuming that they prove to be inferior, to any institution of higher learning, or admitting them only under the provision that they do intensive remedial work, whereafter, should they still fail to measure up to the regular admission standards, they would be refused admittance. In short, the universities need to raise their standards and must refuse to tolerate inferior students. I must, at this point, grant that persuading the universities and the legislatures to do this presents no small problems. Where federal aid, however, would merely subsidize corruption and self-interest, the raising of the university standards would force local improvements. Local improvement would mean forcing the teachers' colleges and the schools of education to produce teachers who could meet stricter qualifications, qualifications which would be met only by taking more subject matter courses and fewer professional courses. Am I too hopeful in presuming that teachers of such improved quality could command the salaries which they would deserve, salaries which would have to be paid by local citizens?

Some children will admittedly suffer under such a revision of our schools. But the improvement which the conservative envisions would, within no great period of time, genuinely improve the schools, to the profit of all the students, while federal aid would I fear, have the effect of extending the present inferior, educationist-dominated system.

Atlanta Justly Deserves This Praise and Respect

Atlanta justly deserves the praise and respect it is receiving for preserving peace and order during its initial experience with school integration. The national image it has achieved by the success of its thorough, well-planned effort to avoid tension and discord makes it the envy of other Southern cities.

We in New Orleans—painfully aware of the unfavorable picture of our city which loomed in the public mind across the nation this time last year when we faced a similar crisis—can speak with authority on the subject.

Likewise can the people of Little Rock, who earlier experienced mob action aimed at thwarting school integration ordered by the federal courts, appreciate Atlanta's success at keeping the peace.

It represents a major community accomplishment—the product of sound leadership in the fields of government, churches, newspapers, civic organizations and plain citizens.

That leadership has worked long and vigorously to prevent incidents such as those which had occurred here and in Little Rock.

That leadership had the wisdom to observe what had happened elsewhere when school integration became effective and to fashion a program that would tend to minimize the chances of similar developments in Atlanta.

But planning and working intelligently to preserve peace was by no means an indication that Atlanta voluntarily had chosen to depart from its traditional position of wanting segregated schools.

This was made clear in the comment of Georgia's Gov. Ernest Vandiver regarding a congratulatory telephone call from Attorney General Robert Kennedy. The governor said:

"I advised Mr. Kennedy that both I and the great majority of Georgians, as he well knew, are strenuously opposed to any integration, but that we would fight our battles in the courts and not on the school grounds."

"I advised him that no responsible public official could advocate or condone violence."

The views he expressed and the behavior of the people of Atlanta this past week provide an example for New Orleans to follow next week when it begins to cope with its second school year of limited integration resulting from federal court action.

Bishop Consults Big Ad Agency

LONDON—The Suffragan Bishop of Bedford, the Rt. Rev. Basil Guy, has called in the ad men. His purpose is "to popularize God."

For this most formidable and possibly dubious task, he has been consulting the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency.

The Bishop, granted that his premise is right, could go to no greater and more reputable authority. I speak with knowledge about this renowned world-wide organization.

Many years ago I served three years with the J. Walter Thompson Co. and wrote the prose of persuasion in their understanding company.

The fact that the Bishop of Bedford, seeing empty churches, empty hearts, a passion for Bingo, Littlewoods and Brigitte Bardot, felt that it was time that a better story was told is understandable.

But is it wise?

Should The Cross compete in the medium of television and press advertising with cat food? Should The Gospel be boosted with the same skill that sells hair shampoos, bottled beer, processed cheese, face cream, furniture polish, instant coffee, salad cream, soup and chocolates?

J. Walter Thompson, with a REBUILDING: Waycross is having a city election, too — in October. Jim Pinson, Waycross Jnl.-Hd., tells how Sam Odum, former mayor and city commissioner in the Ware County seat, was shaking hands at a drugstore, politician-like.

Someone asked the logical question, "Sam, are you fixin' to run for the City Commission again?"

"Heavens, no," the man retorted, according to Jim. "I'm just trying to retrieve some of the friends I lost while I was on the commission."

HOW IT STARTED: Driving on the right.

When the colonists came from England, they drove on the left, as in the motherland. Then the Conestoga or freight wagon was introduced, as an American invention, so designed that the driver must ride on the left in order to get a clear view of the road ahead.

The heavy freight haulers led tracks that were hard to evade. Soon all the traffic was in a rut, on the right. And the guard riding shotgun hoisted himself to sit on the left.

Eddie Barker

Glad to Have Husband Home? He Criticizes, She Hurls Shoe

Dear Mama Barker: You were nice to call us yesterday. But were you serious when you asked if I wasn't delighted to have your son, Eddie, at home every day now that he isn't writing his columns in The Constitution city room any more? I guess you were serious. For you sounded that way. So I'll try and explain just how happy I am in trying to be a wife to this thing.

The first four days he was home he was sick in bed with the flu. Bad sick, I know, but have you ever looked after three children and a cry-baby husband to boot. He is all right now, back to normal, looking over the house and asking me how that mark got on the wall and why the stain is on the living room carpet and how come the bath tub leaks and stuff like that.

In the same breath he tells me that we are all a bunch of piney woods hoozies who don't know how to look after a nice house and deserve nothing but a shack like I came out of.

He opens the refrigerator he bought us so I wouldn't have to worry with defrosting and asks why have I been saving those seven pieces of tomato for two months and what is it with me and all that hard cheese. He looks at everything else, stands there with a disgusted look, picks out dried-up grapes and drops them one at a time in the sink.

Before I can get mad, or apologize—really the only two avenues open—he yells while I chase the baby and asks where some old story is that he started two years ago to write.

When I start looking for it he decides to call long distance and says make it quick please.

The baby that got away is pulling out things from the drawers and the long distance operator is asking if I want to leave word and have them call later. And the five-year-old boy is busy writing his name on the living room wall with the crayon they gave him in kindergarten.

The phone rings now and it is somebody for Eddie. The baby is eating the story I found. I rescue the title page just as the yell comes for a suit, the man of the house must be about on big business.

You know the socks won't match, and we fight this out. The shirt I give him is wrong, a plain button-down oxford cloth, not a tab collar. Who knows about a tab collar?

He says he'll get his own shirt. Do that, I say. But the mistake is mine. While going through the dresser he finds some bills he says should have been paid two weeks ago. I ask if he had the money two weeks ago. He says don't get smart. What to get is the check book, and start writing.

I write checks, answer the call backs on the phone, try once again to find matching socks, get the last page of that same story back from the baby, strike at the boy who has changed from writing on the wall to a bedspread, and now Mr. Eddie Barker marches past on his way out.

"You've just got," he says in passing, "to pull yourself together. What you've got to do is learn to get organized a bit better if I'm going to be around here much during the days."

I threw a shoe at him but missed. It got me nothing but another mark on the wall.

This, then, Mama Barker, is what it's like to have your son at home.

Your daughter-in-law,
Shirley Barker.

Drivers Showing Lag in Courtesy

Sgt. L. A. Pendergrass flies over Atlanta daily in the police helicopter, observing and reporting on traffic conditions.

By SGT. L. A. PENDERGRASS

A growing number of drivers are overlooking some of the lesser traffic courtesies. While they may appear unimportant individually, these things contribute much to the over-all picture.

It's easy to lose your temper in bumper-to-bumper traffic, especially when you are in a hurry and the guy ahead moves like he has nowhere to go and all day to get there.

But don't try anything rash.

It's foolish to pull out into an intersection when traffic across the street is stopped and there is not sufficient room to clear your vehicle.

Suppose the light changes and you have to back out of the intersection. You have to traverse a cross walk which usually is teeming with pedestrians. Strike one and you have hit into a double play for sure.

In backing your car, the maneuver must be carried out in safety, at a speed not greater than five miles per hour and for a distance of not more than 60 feet.

Try patience. It pays.

What Is It That Fills Your Heart?

The human body is one of the greatest miracles in the world. The creation of man is unparalleled. I know of nothing that is more complicated, magnificent and astounding than man. Think about it! There are a lot of human noses in the world, but no two alike. There are uncounted billions of ears in the world, but no one has an ear just like the one God fastened on the side of your head.

Think about the human heart.

The normal heart is about the size of a man's fist. I have heard people say that he or she has a big heart. What they really mean is that the person about whom they are talking is a generous, thoughtful, loving and kind individual.

Dr. Charles Jarrell is a retired Methodist minister. He and Mrs. Jarrell live in a lovely house down in Oxford, Ga. They attend the Allen Memorial Methodist Church on the Emory at Oxford campus. One day I asked Dr. Jarrell how the folks liked their new preacher. "You know," he replied, "the human heart is a remarkable thing. It is big enough to love everybody. We loved our last preacher and we love the one we have now." Jesus taught us to love all the people in the world. We have not learned to do this, but it can be done.

I thought the human heart looked like the ones I have seen pictured on a valentine until I took a course in biology. I took it, but there were times when I thought that biology course was going to take me. The heart actually resembles a gourd if you view it head on, and looks like an animal's hoof if you look at it from a side view.

Any doctor worth his salt will tell you that your heart is a muscle. When you are in love you are not heartsick, you are just musclebound.

The psalmist said, "He shall not be afraid of evil tidings: His heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord." Psalms 112:7. You can fill your heart with evil thoughts and break it. I see many people almost every week who have done just that. On the other hand, you can fill it with holy thoughts and keep it pure.

Jesus said, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Matthew 5:8. What did He mean? There is an ocean of spiritual water in this statement. Let me just dip up a few drops. Jesus wanted us to fill our hearts with noble dreams and worthy aspirations. When a man, by the grace of God, determines to live a righteous life he is headed in the right direction.

Your heart beats over three billion times in the course of 70 years and pumps about seven tons of blood each day through your blood vessels. Let us determine, with every heartbeat, to keep our hearts pure.

She Ain't Particularly Happy That 'Ain't' Made Dictionary

A learned lawyer writes in to say he reckons I'm as thrilled as all get-out that "ain't" finally made the dictionary this year. He reasons that I'm some sort of self-appointed champion of underdog words and expressions, the illegitimate offspring of uncultivated speech, as it were. And I suppose it naturally follows that I will jump for joy when some lexicographer breaks down and legitimizes some good useful country word or phrase by putting in the dictionary.

Well, sir, it ain't so. I'm not the least bit set up over this belated notice of a good, sound, useful, functional word. How snobbish can you get?

I felt about "ain't" making Webster's little old book just as I would feel if some dear, long-cherished friend made the New York Social Register. As the heroine of Julia Peterkin's "Scarlet Sister Mary" said when she wanted to give some late event its proper place in the great scheme of things:

"It's jes' lak the door hadn't opened."

With me and "ain't" it's jes' lak the door to the dictionary hadn't opened. I counted it a good word and I'd be ashamed to think it acquired either luster or stature through this long overdue gesture.

There's one heartening thing, however, about the Webster people opening the door to ain't. It bespeaks a more liberal attitude toward a lot of other words. Of course I like the country ones—usually the good Anglo-Saxon flavored words that lasted in rural areas until this very generation when mass communication may drive them out of style. I'm partial to "holp" for help and "pearl" for pert. Some of the old meanings seem worthy of preserving, too. It won't be long until only the writers of esoteric, privately published papers on folkways will know that "clever" not only connotes a bright mind, a certain skill, but was once a graceful way of saying a person was charming.

This loss of the old meanings might seem a paltry thing but as long as the language is the flexible, living, changing thing it is, there should be some way of preserving the words that have served us best.

Sometimes when you read H. L. Mencken and see the near-misses we've had it scares you. There was once a word expert, for instance, who wanted to rewrite all the Mother Goose rhymes that were handed down to us by the English founders. I shudder when I think that "Sing a Song of Sixpence" might have been handed down in this form:

"And when the pie was opened
The birds they were song-less;
Now wasn't that a funny dish
To set before the Congress!"

When it came to that, old Noah Webster himself, founder of the dictionary which has finally deigned to take in "ain't," wasn't always the last word in words. According to Mencken (the American Language, Supplement 1) he had a lot of critics, among them Thomas Jefferson who called him "a mere pedagogue, of very limited understanding and very strong prejudices and party passion."

THE ONE BIG QUESTION

This has been a long, hard campaign but, for me, it has been a wonderful experience. I have been applauded . . . I have been booed . . . but I have been listened to. For many weeks now I have said that the one question in this campaign is:

WHO WILL MAKE THE BEST MAYOR FOR ATLANTA?

Who can furnish the best leadership: who can do the best job of bringing new industry to Atlanta: who can do the best job of representing you not only in Atlanta but in the nation? Which candidate offers you the kind of leadership that Atlanta must have if she is to continue to go forward?

I believe, as I have never believed anything in my life, that we are on the threshold of the greatest era of growth and prosperity that Atlanta has ever known. I want to be a part of this growth. I want to be your mayor. I ask only one thing of you and that is, that you put the City of Atlanta first when you make your decision as to how you will vote. No citizen who lives in Atlanta can do more than this.

Reds to Test Rocket Power In Mid Pacific This Month

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.)
MOSCOW—The Soviet Union announced Sunday that it would test-fire a series of "more powerful and improved rockets" into the central Pacific between Sept. 13 and Oct. 15.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the rockets would be of a multi-stage carrier type for space vehicles and would be launched without their final stages. Soviet naval vessels will monitor the impact area more than 1,000 miles southwest of Hawaii.

While the announcement spoke of space research rockets, it was noted here that Moscow had been emphasizing recently that the same missile development program has produced similar rockets capable of delivering nuclear superbombs "to any point of the globe."

MOVES RELATED

Western experts here related announcement of the new test firings to the series of military measures that Moscow has undertaken over the last weeks in connection with the Berlin crisis. Earlier Sunday it was announced that the Soviet-directed Warsaw pact forces would strengthen their military dispositions to counter what was described as the threatening moves of the Atlantic alliance.

These military developments were balanced by Western diplomats against Khrushchev's remarks in a speech Sunday in Stalingrad in which he said a "glimmer of hope" had appeared for negotiations with the West over Berlin and Germany. It was said Khrushchev appeared to be using "the carrot and stick" technique in attempting to persuade the West to negotiate on his terms.

The Soviet rocket announcement stirred speculation that Soviet scientists may be testing a missile capable of carrying a hundred megaton bomb, which Khrushchev has said the Soviet Union possesses.

Pravda, Communist party newspaper, Sunday morning published a partial text of the remarks made by Khrushchev in an interview with C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times last week, in which he touched on development of the megaton bomb.

The Pravda version said: "Let those who dream of a new aggression know that we shall have a bomb with a yield equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of TNT—and we already have this bomb, and are testing a trigger device for it—and that if they attack us they would face certain death."

Since Sept. 1 Soviet Union has conducted five tests in the atmosphere of nuclear devices. Four of them over Central Asia had a yield of low to intermediate range. Sunday's explosion, according to Western reports, was over the Soviet Arctic and the biggest of the series. In view of Pravda's reference to the testing of a trigger device, it was thought that the explosions might be related to this development program.

SHIPS, PLANES WARNED

If the pattern of previous Soviet test firings in the central Pacific is repeated, the rocket launches that will commence sometime after next Wednesday will be down a range about 8,000 miles into a target area near the Palmyra Islands. The last in a series of Soviet launches over the same range took place in July, 1960. Tass said it had been authorized to request other governments to warn ships and planes to keep out of the target area.

During the period of rocket launches Soviet naval maneuvers are to be carried out in the Barents and Kara Seas. Rocket units are to participate in the exercises.

The announcement on Sept. 2 indicated that missile weapons would be employed, and foreign ships and aircraft were warned to keep out of the area from Sunday until Nov. 15.

Berlin Swimmers Tow Baby to West

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
BERLIN (AP)—East Germans made a series of daring escapes Sunday into West Berlin. They included a couple who swam a canal towing behind them their 18-month-old baby in a small bathtub.

Three youngsters crashed a heavy truck through a wall that forms part of the concrete and barbed wire dividing Berlin.

A family group of 12 slid down a rope from an apartment window and stepped into West Berlin under the noses of the Red police.

The three youths took a six-wheel dump truck the Communists were using to build up the wall separating East and West Berlin. The driver, a metal worker, identified himself only as Edmund in order to protect his widowed mother still in the east sector.

"I gave the truck the gas and just ploughed straight ahead" at 25 miles per hour, he told newsmen. Edmund said he had to steer between two big concrete pillars.

The truck hit the wall with a tremendous crash. Prefabricated building blocks scattered like toys over a distance of 30 feet.

It was the first time anyone had actually rammed through the wall. Last Friday another escapee crashed through the Brandenburg Gate in a delivery truck. But there the barrier was not so formidable.

The unidentified swimming couple got across the No. 1 danger spot—the Teltow Canal. There the Communists have shot and killed at least two men swimming to the west bank.

The mass escape down a rope by 12 members of one family was at Bernauerstrasse, where the

Cash Card Could Keep Credit Good

WASHINGTON (AP)—A country-music impresario sketched a bright dream Sunday for Americans concerned that cash might go completely out of style in these credit-happy times.

Connie B. Gay, a self-styled farm boy from North Carolina, announced a "cash card" program as an answer to the credit he just dandy for customers and merchants—and acknowledged it will cause Connie Gay no financial pain, either, if it goes over as he hopes.

Gay is a 47-year-old, folding-money fan who has collected scads of that once-fashionable stuff operating country-music radio stations in Washington, Ashland, Ky., and Kinston, N.C.

The way Gay tells it—through a 10-page release by a public relations firm—the idea is a simple one. You pay him $10 and become a member of his Cash Card International Club. This entitles you to a card and a directory of stores participating in the program.

You take this card when you shop, says Gay, produce it after you make your purchase and get a discount of 5 to 40 per cent when you pay with cash, check or money order. Gay claims club members will be made happy by savings of $300 or more a year and merchants will profit by lessened bookkeeping and credit-machinery costs.

The publicity release says Gay figures to have Cash Card rolling in Washington—with 200,000 club members—by the end of this year and then plans to go on to really big things nationally and internationally.

France, Tunisia Exchange 1,000

MENZEL DJEMIL, Tunisia (UPI)—France and Tunisia Sunday exchanged nearly 1,000 civilian and military prisoners taken during the four-day battle of Bizerte in July.

The exchange, carried out under the auspices of the International Red Cross, took place at this tiny village about four miles from Bizerte on the road to Tunis. It lies in a no-man's land between the French and Tunisian lines.

The exchange involved 778 Tunisian military and civilian prisoners held by the French and 217 civilians and military men held by Tunisia.

Mud Flats Probed For Plane Victims

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Rescue workers dug in Shannon estuary mudbanks Saturday to recover victims of the worst disaster ever to befall a U.S. commercial plane abroad.

Eighty-three persons—77 of them European farmers and their families en route for a tour of the American Corn Belt—and a six-member U.S. crew perished in the crash of a chartered DC6 of President Air Lines into the Shannon swirling tides shortly after taking off before dawn for New York. None of the crew was from Georgia.

First reports from Shannon Airport officials and a U.S. Air Force spokesman in London erroneously identified the passengers as American Army personnel, their wives and children flying home from Germany. It was explained later that the error arose because a chartered plane carrying the Americans had been called for takeoff at the same time.

Sixty-five Germans and a handful of Swiss, Dutch and Austrians were the passengers of the ill-fated flight. All aboard, including one infant, died in a horror of muck and tangled wreckage.

Working at times knee-deep in mud, rescue workers recovered 63 bodies before the incoming tide lapped over most of the wreckage and interrupted operations late Sunday.

The DC6 had been chartered from President Air Lines, a charter firm based at Burbank, Calif., by Mannesmann-Reger, a German company which builds farm spraying equipment, to carry the Europeans to Chicago. The big four-engine plane took off Saturday night from Dusseldorf, West Germany. Shannon was a refueling stop. The passengers planned a three-week visit to the United States, paid for out of their own pockets, for sight-seeing and studying American farming methods.

5 Are Killed On Roads Of State

Lyerly Boy, 12, Dies in Alabama

The death of a youth in a north Georgia collision Sunday brought to five the number of persons killed in state traffic during the weekend, the State Patrol reported.

In addition, a Georgia boy died in an Alabama crash. He was Billy Stencil, 12, of Lyerly, who was struck and killed by a car Saturday 11 miles north of Gaylesville, Ala.

The State Patrol said Hoyt Avery Rogers, 19, of Hemp, a community near Blue Ridge, was killed when the car in which he was riding attempted to pass on the crest of a hill and collided head-on with another vehicle in Fannin County on Georgia 60 north of Mineral Bluff.

PINNED IN WRECK

Billy Zvonchek, 15, of Columbus, died early Sunday when he was pinned under the flaming wreckage of his car on a Muscogee County road.

Arthur B. Holbrook, 33, of Westminster, S.C., was killed in a three-car crash north of Toccoa on U.S. 123 Sunday. Eight others were injured, two critically. They were taken to a Toccoa hospital.

Ronald C. Burton, of Summerville, was killed early Saturday when his car ran into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck on Georgia Highway 48 west of Summerville.

CAR OVERTURNS

Herbert H. Jennings, 25, of Bristol, Pa., was killed Friday night when his car left Georgia Highway 247 about 10 miles south of Macon and overturned several times.

Other fatalities included a drowning and the death of a man crushed in a peanut combine machine.

Coroner O. L. Lunsford said Clifford Lee Jones, 38, of the Benevolence community in Randolph County, accidentally was crushed to death when a peanut combine machine was started while he was cleaning it.

Officer Runs Down Whisky Car—On Foot

Knowledge of one's beat is a valuable asset to the walking policeman.

Vice Raids Net 101 at Clubs Here

A total of 101 Negroes were arrested early Sunday morning in raids on two southside Atlanta "clubs," police said.

Seventeen persons were arrested by vice squad detectives and charged with disorderly conduct, gaming, and 10 other persons were arrested and charged with occupying a disorderly house after the detectives raided the Korean Veterans Club, 514 McDaniel St., SW, early Sunday morning.

Andrew Merritt, 26, of 330 Glenn St., SW, was arrested and charged with operating a gaming house and operating a disorderly house, officers said.

In a second raid about an hour later, the officers rounded up 72 Negroes at the Sportsman Club at 1321 Jonesboro Rd., SE, and charged them with occupying a disorderly house, police said.

James H. Jackson, 37, 1059 Fortness St., SW, the operator of the club, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, operating a disorderly house.

Vice squad Detectives H. L. Whalen, S. T. Hinshaw, C. B. Wooster, B. F. Peppers, B. G. Brown and J. R. Watkins participated in the raids.

Patrolman J. B. Phillips said he was walking his beat on Electric Avenue NW when a car turned in the street and, apparently spotting him, picked up speed. This made him think it was a drunk driver, Phillips said, and he turned and gave chase to the car on foot.

About a block and a half away he caught up with the car, Phillips said, and found in it 34 gallons of non-tax-paid whisky.

The reason he gave chase on foot, said Phillips, was because he knew something the driver of the car didn't know. What he knew was that Electric Avenue dead-ends into a high bank. The car suffered slight damage to the front fender, said Phillips, and the driver fled before he could be apprehended.

Rev. King Denies Role In Fatal Church Fracas

Dr. Martin Luther King, Atlanta integration leader, called on the president of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Sunday to retract charges linking King with violence at the Negro organization's convention in Kansas City last week.

Dr. J. H. Jackson of Chicago, at a news conference in Kansas City Saturday, charged that King "masterminded the invasion of the convention floor Wednesday which resulted in the death of a delegate."

He referred to the fatal injuries suffered by the Rev. A. G. Wright of Detroit when he fell from the platform when the Rev. Dr. Gardner Taylor of Brooklyn led about 30 followers to the speaker's platform.

GOP for Restoring Emergency Funds

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans generally will support a move to restore House cuts in President John F. Kennedy's emergency fund and foreign military outlays, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said Sunday.

Dirksen, the Senate minority leader, said he has become convinced after discussing the matter with Kennedy that the President ought to have the full $300 million in contingent funds Congress previously authorized.

In passing a $3.66-billion foreign aid money bill last week, the House chopped $125 million off the $300 million Congress previously had voted to authorize for the emergency fund. This was part of the $600 million in cuts below the over-all 4.25 billion of authorization legislation passed the previous week.

"In times like these the President must have flexibility of action," Dirksen said. "He cannot wait for the legislative wheels to turn when a crisis arises."

Dirksen said he believed that in view of the world situation Congress can ill afford to let stand a House reduction of $100 million under the $1.7 billion authorized previously for military assistance abroad.

The Republican leader made no commitments, however, on other House reductions. These include a $175-million slice off the development loan fund, a $121-million reduction in development grants—the old Point Four program—and $65 million cut from economic assistance funds.

The Senate Appropriations Committee expects to go to work on the House-passed bill by midweek.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he hopes the committee will recommend restoration of funds to put the over-all total above the $4-billion mark. Kennedy has been urging this as a minimum figure below the $4,775,500,000 he originally requested.

Whatever action the Senate takes in increasing funds still will be subject to House acceptance in a conference to compromise figures at variance in the two measures.

A MESSAGE From LESTER MADDOX

ATLANTA'S FUTURE

must be placed in the hands of a capable leader — a Mayor who is obligated to the people of Atlanta and not controlled by local or out-of-state special interest groups with selfish motives. The future well-being of you, your family and our entire city hangs in the balance. You must select a man who believes in you and in Atlanta—one who dares to take a stand for things that are right.

ATLANTA'S FUTURE

is great—and we must have as Mayor a man who is qualified to do the job. I have studied municipal government across the nation as a member of the National Municipal League for the past five years. This study has included all phases of municipal operation. The problems confronting our cities and the methods being used to solve these problems are familiar to me. I have given close study to Atlanta's City Government for more than ten years. In addition to my education in Atlanta Public Schools, I have studied accounting, engineering and completed two active years in metallurgical research. Also, I was active in manufacturing and industrial operations; in positions of responsibility for more than ten years. As a businessman, I started with a capital investment of only $4.00 and that investment, as of today, has increased by more than one hundred thousand times.

I LIKE TO SELL,

Promote, push, drive, organize and MOVE FORWARD. I can't stand being still and I can't stand lazy people or lazy government. Being Mayor of Atlanta is a tough job. That is one reason I am seeking this most important office—I like tough jobs. I will be honest with all our citizens and I do not believe you want a Mayor who will not be honest with you. That is why I ask my opponents to publicly declare over TV, to all of Atlanta what their answers were to the questionnaire put out by the Atlanta Negro Voters' League. Unless they accept this challenge they are admitting their refusal to be honest with the white and Negro citizens of Atlanta. Unless they are men enough to accept this challenge, then I would suggest their withdrawal from this race. Will you fellow citizens support a politician who hides the truth from you?

MY PROMISE

to YOU is that I will keep my promises. You and I will work to accelerate the economic growth of Atlanta, to provide better pay, hours and working conditions for city employees and better services to the taxpayers. We will, together, help develop the civic facilities long overdue for Atlanta, appoint citizens committees for financial advice, public relations, traffic, recreational, housing, urban re-development and other important functions of a large and growing city. We can make Atlanta one of the greatest and most progressive cities in the world. We are going to do just that. Those now dragging their feet must start picking them up or we will put someone else in their shoes.

PLEASE—all I ask is that you take a few minutes to write down what you think needs to be done in Atlanta, the things you believe in and what you stand for. The things you know would be best for you and Atlanta. Then, compare your platform with my platform and I believe you will find them to be almost alike. You might even agree that you could have written my platform—if you find this to be true, then to serve as your Mayor by electing me on September 13th, and for the next four years I will give YOU and ATLANTA all I have.

GIVE ME A CHANCE

Yours for a bigger and better Atlanta,

Lester Maddox

Carla Smashes Texas Coast; Louisiana Cities Flooded

Louisiana coasts was helping prevent a heavy toll of casualties.

As still more people fled, officials sent refugees far inland for shelter.

One official, Jim Garner, the Texas state coordinator for Civil Defense and disaster relief, estimated that "one half million folks" had been evacuated from Texas coast areas alone. But most official estimates placed the figure at 250,000 evacuees in Texas and 50,000 in Louisiana.

A Red Cross spokesman in Washington called it a "modern day exodus."

Galveston, scene of a hurricane-tidal wave in 1900 that killed 5,000 to 8,000 people, was being badly flooded. Tides rose almost nine feet above normal and kept rising as winds hit Galveston with gusts up to 90 miles an hour. Water was almost five feet deep in parts of the center of the island city. Thirty-foot waves hurled more water over all seawalls.

The American Red Cross said its feeding-shelter program was "the largest of all time."

FREEPORT LIFELESS

Freeport, an industrial center of 14,000, became the first city totally evacuated. Two dikes burst under relentless tidal pressure and floods poured through the streets. The mayor ordered all remaining persons in town to leave. None disobeyed.

All was calm in Galveston. Many fled but thousands remained. Civil Defense Communications Coordinator Roy Houston said that despite memories of the 1900 disaster, Carla would not do the same damage. The 16-foot seawalls were not built until after that catastrophe.

Rattlesnakes and other reptiles posed a threat, slithering out onto streets and roads in many coastal areas as water flooded their swamp lairs.

GALE WARNINGS UP

Gale warnings were up in the Gulf of Mexico from Brownsville, Tex., in the Rio Grande Valley, to New Orleans.

The 12-unit Beachcomber Motel on Padre Island was washed away off the south Texas coast. Appeals went out for 500 to 1,000 National Guard troops to help sandbag remaining buildings.

Wooden piers were smashed at Galveston and points down the coast. Logs and planks, thrown back by the sea, littered the coastline with other debris.

Piers off Port Lavaca disappeared under water. A fishing shack, apparently being towed to safety, was left sitting in the middle of a flooded street.

BAROMETER PLUNGES

The barometer continued to fall alarmingly.

Feeding and sheltering of refugees was a herculean task. Some 50,000 of them jammed Houston, itself batten down for the big blow still to come. People were moved inland as far as Waco, Tex., 235 miles from the coast and Dallas, 300 miles inland.

Two levee breaks were reported in Jefferson Parish, Louisiana, near New Orleans, one at Goose Bayou, the other at Big Barataria.

The Weather Bureau warned the hurricane would be of "long duration." The dead "eye" at its center alone was 50 miles across.

Officials estimated 50,000 Louisiana residents, including all 6,900 living in Cameron parish, were inland in shelters. Cameron residents who needed no urging were the first out. Hurricane Audrey killed 500 people there in 1957.

NEW HURRICANE

Meanwhile, tropical storm eastern Debbie, spawned in notorious breeding grounds of killer hurricanes in the eastern Atlantic, grew into a full-blown hurricane Sunday night with winds of 85 miles an hour.

The Weather Bureau at San Juan, P.R., said reports from vessels in the area and information obtained from the Tiro III weather satellite indicated that the disturbance had grown to hurricane proportions as it churned across the tropical Atlantic.

Photographs from the orbiting satellite pinpointed the center of the storm about 1,400 miles east-northeast of San Juan.

The hurricane was moving northwesterly at 14 miles per hour and was expected to continue on a northwesterly course at about the same speed for the next 12 hours, the Weather Bureau said in its 11 p.m. advisory.

GALE WINDS

Winds of hurricane force (75 miles per hour and above) were concentrated in a small area near the center, the advisory said, with gale winds extending outward 150 miles to the north and 50 miles to the south. It said little change in size or intensity was expected during the next 12 hours.

The Weather Bureau also said

At 11 p.m., the Bureau said the center of this hurricane was about 500 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

At 11 p.m., the Bureau said the center of this hurricane was about 500 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

along Texas' coast.

The tide of humanity by noon Sunday reached as far north as Dallas, 300 miles from the coast and a few scattered evacuees went still farther west and north.

Thousands of persons sought no greater distance from the storm than terrain high enough to escape the tides. They stopped at a point they considered safe and sought shelter in schoolhouses and other public buildings.

WACO BEFORE NOON

The leading fringes of the movement reached Waco before noon. A little farther south of Waco, Austin cared for nearly a thousand refugees.

At Pleasanton, 150 miles from the coast, evacuees gathered in clusters downtown, seemingly not knowing what to do.

Roadside parks jammed with travelers, seeking a little rest.

Patrol cars, sirens screaming, rushed an emergency generator across Houston from Ellington Air Force Base to Siring Branch school where a woman was having a baby. Wind and rain had halted power to the school.

At Lufkin, 100 miles north of Port Arthur, officials estimated that 25,000 cars loaded with refugees had swamped the city's facilities. An estimated 1,500 families were put in private homes. Schools and churches were opened to care for the flood, but some traveled wearily on north.

said rescue workers scratched at mounds of debris to get to the injured.

"They were hollering and crying at the hospital," Lege said. "People walked through the streets, looking for their furniture, looking where the houses were."

Other tornadoes roared through Louisiana skies. One of them touched down at Gueydan, 15 miles west of Kaplan, and injured two persons.

Officers sighted the third twister near Intracoastal City, south of Kaplan, but they did not see it touch down.

(A seven-member team, including four nurses, from Atlanta were sent Sunday night by Southeastern area headquarters of the American Red Cross to the tornado-torn communities of Kaplan and Gueydon.

(The team is under direction of Tom Mann, of Gay, Ga., of the reserve disaster staff, Red Cross officials said).

Kaplan lost all communication with the outside. Telephone and electricity were cut off. National guard units from three nearby cities were on a standby basis.

Michael Smith

Michael Smith, 14, a resident of Trussville, Ala., died Sunday in an Atlanta hospital. He lived at 121 Parkway Dr., Trussville.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford G. Smith Jr., Trussville, Ala., and their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Smith Jr., Macon, and Mrs. J. P. Crawley, Atlanta.

of two blocks. The church itself, a large yellow building, was jammed so tightly that people had to push by in single file to get in or out.

The crowd at first was quiet and expectant, many not having heard of the cancellation; then here and there people began to call out, and soon the shouting was continuous and so loud that, when youths climbed into the belfry and rang the bells, they were barely heard.

"Cuba si, Russia no," was one slogan. "Libertad" was called out and taken up in a thundering five-minute chant. "Down with communism," was another shout. "Viva Christa," was another.

A young man in shirt sleeves spied a friend in the crowd and embraced him. "How many people there are here!" he cried out. "Oh, my Cuba!"

Twenty youths, some white and some Negro, were standing on a truck. "White and black, we are here!" they shouted. The crowd was mostly white but there were many Negroes in it.

Early in the demonstration, the crowds twice pressed themselves onto the narrow sidewalks as police cars raced through the streets with blaring sirens. As one passed, a policeman fired twice in the air. Shortly afterwards, demonstrators pulled cars across the roadway at various intersections leading to the church, thus keeping the way clear for the crowds.

Particularly loud bursts of cheering broke out on two occasions when soldiers in the crowd threw down their weapons and tore off their insignia. They were hauled to the shoulders of the demonstrators and borne about triumphantly.

At one point everyone whipped out white handkerchiefs, used as a reply to the Red flags seen everywhere, and the air filled with the scent of cologne as they were waved vigorously. Cheers went up every once in a while as someone held up a Communist flag and burned it.

Over and over the crowd cried out, "Have her brought out."

They were referring to the statue of the Virgin of Charity which traditionally is carried in the procession.

Finally a man, who made himself heard with great difficulty, announced that Bishop Boza had decided that there would be no procession.

This set the crowd to shouting and milling about uncertainly until a youth holding a large picture of the virgin was hoisted to the shoulders of several others and was carried off in the direction of the presidential palace.

The crowd took up the cry "to the palace" and surged forward.

At that point, lines of militia and soldiers who were staked out at an intersection two blocks from the church, opened fire. Short bursts of rifle and machine gun bullets whizzed over the heads of the crowd into the walls of the nearby buildings.

As the crowd continued to move forward the soldiers aimed lower. This time three people were hit, though none was injured seriously.

Kennedy Keeping His Eye on Carla

By TOM WICKER

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

HYANNIS PORT — President John F. Kennedy was keeping in close touch Sunday with disaster preparations along the Texas coast.

Kennedy and his aides at the White House alerted a number of federal agencies, the services of which were expected to be needed in the wake of hurricane Carla.

The President himself talked by telephone Saturday night with Gov. Price Daniel of Texas and a White House assistant has been in touch with Gov. Jimmie Davis of Louisiana.

Brilliant September weather on Cape Cod contrasted vividly with the 150-mile winds, the driving rains and the flood damage that the President feared were in store for the Gulf Coast decision.

Sunshine, blue water and a crisp breeze made this the kind of day Kennedy has seldom experienced in the 11 consecutive weekends he has spent this summer at his house on Nantucket Sound.

He and Mrs. Kennedy, with other members of the family, were out Sunday afternoon on the Marlin, a 52-foot cabin cruiser belonging to Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father.

The Kennedy's overnight house guests, Ambassador and Mrs. James Gavin, flew early Sunday morning to New York. There they caught a transatlantic flight to Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy attended a 10 a.m. mass at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church.

One of Kennedy's prime concerns was the impending storm along the Gulf Coast, since his reports indicated that it could be one of the worst in many years.

White House Press Secretary, Pierre Salinger, said Kennedy had made arrangements for periodic reports to his summer house by Frank B. Ellis, the director of the Office of Emergency Planning.

Among other governmental agencies that Salinger said had been alerted by the White House were the following:

The Army, which would help in relocation and in finding temporary housing for the displaced; the Department of Commerce, which would attempt to keep transportation functioning; the Department of Agriculture, which was engaged in emergency food planning; the Red Cross, and the Coast Guard.

French Identify De Gaulle Plotter

PARIS (AP) — French Interior Minister Roger Frey Sunday identified a man he said attempted to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle as Martial de Villemandy, a 30-year-old former Saigon radio announcer.

De Villemandy was arrested shortly after the assassination attempt Friday night as De Gaulle was driving to his country estate. De Villemandy has confessed a role in the attempt, Frey said.

De Gaulle was unhurt and continued to his home at Colombey-les-deux-Eglises. The chauffeur-driven car was only slightly damaged since the bomb failed to go off. The President attended mass at the village church Sunday morning as usual.

Frey declared that at least five men appeared to have been involved in the attack, although only one is under arrest. He named one of the men who is being sought. Another is in the process of identification and two men are known only by nicknames.

The minister told a news conference that the assassination attempt was certainly directed by the secret army organization (OAS), which is based in Algeria and agitating to keep the rebellion province under French domination.

Frey said De Villemandy had always boasted to his friends that he was a member of the OAS and under the orders of former Gen. Raoul Salan, now in flight.

Salan is under a death sentence in absentia for his role in the April revolt of the generals in Algeria.

2,000 Britons Rally, Decry Berlin War

(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.)
LONDON — About 2,000 demonstrators cheered speakers opposing war over Berlin in Trafalgar Square Sunday.

After the rally was concluded a marching column with torches invaded the quiet streets of the West End to publicize their cause and to leave a pamphlet at the United States Embassy in Grosvenor Square.

The "No War for Berlin" demonstration was organized by the "Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament" with help from the "London Peace Campaign." The latter earlier staged a march through the city as a protest over the stationing of German troops in Britain.

Canon Lewis Collins of St. Paul's Cathedral, who presided at the Trafalgar Square rally, declared the demonstration had been called "to inform our government and the governments of the U.S.S.R. and of America that we will not accept the idea of war over Berlin or over any other German problem."

"We are also here to protest to every government that tests nuclear weapons and to protest against the restarting of tests by the Soviet government," Collins declared.

Stop Testing, British Mother Asks Leaders

LONDON (UPI) — A young British mother Sunday said she has appealed to President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to end nuclear testing because of the dangers of radioactive fallout to children, including their own.

Mrs. Dorothy Oliver, 27, said she made the plea in letters to the American and Soviet leaders.

She said she wrote to Kennedy as a "father," and to Khrushchev as a "grandfather."

Pope Delivers Plea For World Peace

By ARNALDO CORTESI

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

ROME — In a moving and impassioned appeal for peace, Pope John XXIII called on leaders of both East and West to negotiate their differences and so remove the threat of war that hangs over the world.

He mentioned no person or nation by name but he was clearly addressing the Kremlin no less than the White House when he said, "It is truly upon wise men that the issue depends that force shall not prevail but right through free and sincere negotiations; that truth and justice shall be vindicated by safeguarding the essential liberties and 'the insuppressible values of every nation and of every human person.'"

The usually smiling and cheerful Pope was serious and stern visaged as he addressed himself to the rulers of the great powers. He urged them to "face squarely the tremendous responsibilities they bear before the tribunal of history and, what is more, before the judgment seat of God" and entreated them "not to fall victims to false and deceiving provocations."

Pope John told them they have enough time to negotiate an agreement because he doesn't believe the danger of war is imminent.

"By the mercy of God," he said.

"Thousands of young men and young women will vote this year for the first time. Better informed, better educated and more interested than their forebears, we may expect better government in the future."—Editorial quote.

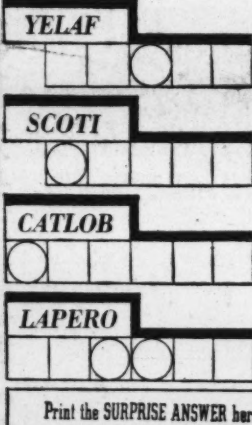

If someone walked up and told you... "You don't have the right to vote"... Two policemen couldn't hold you... You would grab him by the throat... You would quote the Constitution... And repeat the Bill of Rights... And you'd start a revolution... Or, at least, a dozen fights.

It is yours, (that is conceded)... Yours to use or throw away... But, since every vote is needed... Comes the next election day... After "prayer and meditation"... Vote for anyone you choose... And you'll meet your obligation... Though your candidate may lose.

And don't be too disappointed... If you lose the vote you cast... None of them has been anointed... Like the prophets of the past... Although they are prophesying... Things no man can ever do... You can't blame a man for trying... When he wants a vote from you... So, you stand behind the curtain... In the little voting booth... Still a little bit uncertain... Which of them has told the truth.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | Pass | 2 ♠   | Pass |
| 3 NT  | Pass | 3 ♠   | Pass |
| 1 ♠   | 2 ♠  | Pass  | Pass |

What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. Heretofore you have made two minimum rebids, and it is incumbent upon you to show that you have a really good diamond raise rather than a mere preference, in view of the fact that your cards have become enhanced in value.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | 2 ♠  | Pass  | Pass |

What do you bid now?
A.—Double. Don't make the mistake of bidding two hearts merely to show a second biddable suit. The double will serve every practical purpose. It will help you to determine whether to play the hand at spades, hearts, or diamonds, or might possibly enable partner to pass for penalties now that he knows you have opened on values beyond the minimum.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | 2 ♠  | Pass  | Pass |

What do you bid?
A.—There can be no doubt that your destination is a slam of some kind which you could hardly fail to reach opposite a two bid. In order to determine the full potentialities of the hand, it is better to settle the trump suit first by an immediate raise to three hearts. This permits the ace showing to start. On the next round you will show the ace of clubs and if partner shows the ace of diamonds you will indicate possession of the king, providing partner with complete information as to your holding.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | Pass | 2 ♠   | Pass |

What action do you take?
A.—Three hearts. The direct raise is much superior to inviting complications by bidding your other suit.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | 2 ♠  | Pass  | Pass |

What action do you take?
A.—Two spades. This hand is worth just one constructive bid. It would, therefore, be poor tactics to bid two hearts which would necessitate a subsequent raise in spades. Such action would describe a much stronger hand.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | 2 ♠  | Pass  | Pass |

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. Despite the five trumps, you have not sufficient values for a free raise. Your hand is worth scarcely six points.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | Pass | 2 ♠   | Pass |

What is your rebid?
A.—Four hearts. A double raise is in order since this hand is worth 18 points in support of hearts. A single raise would not do justice to your holding.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

| South | West | North | East |
|-------|------|-------|------|
| 1 ♠   | Pass | 2 ♠   | Pass |

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. You have a minimum hand and should take no voluntary action even though you are in position to rebid at a low level.

Ole Miss Re-Arming To Defend SEC Championship

This is the seventh in a series of preview columns on Southeastern Conference football teams.

OXFORD, Miss.—Though Mississippi lost nine starters from last year's unbeaten championship cast, the Rebels are picked in assorted pre-season polls to finish no lower than third.

Dixie experts learned long ago that touting Ole Miss near the top improves their handicapping average. Since Johnny Vaught assumed command at Oxford, the rollicking Rebels have won four championships, played in eight bowls and recorded a 111-29-7 record. Only Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma claims a higher winning percentage than Vaught's .779 average over a 14-year span.

"How does it feel to get off the spot and to plunge all the way to third this year?" a visitor asked Vaught before a recent practice session.

"Yeah, the pressure is off this year," replied Vaught, smiling. "I'll be able to tell you a lot more about this football team after the first two games. If we beat Arkansas and Kentucky we'll have to have an outstanding team."

"Seriously, I think at least six teams figure as contenders. Everyone is picking L.S.U. and Alabama up there. Then there's Tennessee, Auburn, Georgia Tech and us. It's a tough league."

Indeed, it is, and no team is tougher annually than the Rebels. Replacing all-American Jake Gibbs, halfbacks Bobby Crespin and George Blair, fullback Jim Anderson, guard Richard Price, end Johnny Brewer and others would pose an impossible chore on most campuses but not at Ole Miss.

—Dunn Could Be Best of Reb QB Stars

There seems to be an inexhaustible supply of talent in the Delta state. For example, only six out-of-staters are listed on the current roster.

Latest in a long line of super quarterbacks is soph Perry Lee Dunn, a 200-pounder from Natchez who reportedly has even more potential than Gibbs.

Opposed to applauding a player before he plays in a college game, Vaught is somewhat reserved in discussing Perry Lee.

"He's a fine prospect," Vaught said, "but he's a sophomore. He's just finding out how to do things, and right now he's not ready to run our offense."

QB DOUG ELMORE (L), GUARD BILLY RAY JONES READY TO STEP INTO THE OLE MISS SPOTLIGHT
Elmore Replaces All-America Jake Gibbs; Jones Is Rated By Coach Johnny Vaught as the Rebs' Best Guard

All-star quarterback for three years in the fast Mississippi Big Eight conference, Dunn scored 284 points and netted 5,717 yards at Natchez. He lived up to his press clippings as a freshman stickout and in the varsity spring game.

However, Dunn won't be the starting quarterback at Ole Miss. After basking in Gibbs' shadow for two seasons, senior Doug Elmore steps into the starting spotlight. Junior Glynn Griffin will also see action. Before the season advances very far, Dunn is apt to be the big gun.

Senior Art Doty and junior Louis Guy are typical Ole Miss type halfbacks, which means they are fast and rugged. Buddy Crosby,

A. J. Holloway, Larry Smith, Larry Johnson, Walter Kinnebrew and Chico Taylor have also passed the Vaught preparatory test.

—Adams Reminds Vaught of Flowers

At fullback, Billy Ray Adams is held in high esteem. "On offense," Vaught remarked, "Adams could be as good as Charlie Flowers."

No further recommendation is needed for this pre-season all-SEC nominee. Sparkling sophs Fred Roberts and Buck Randall have moved ahead of senior Frank Halbert in the reserve corps. If he recovers from a knee injury, Randall will also be the field goal kicker.

Ole Miss always has one or more all-American candidates. Ralph Smith is the man this year. Tough to please Vaught says, "In my opinion, Smith deserves all-star recognition. He is our best lineman."

Junior Woody Dabbs, Wes Sullivan, Billy Champion, Lew Lanter and Reed Davis round out the flank list. However, Champion, who spells Smith on the left side, is now a doubtful performer due to a knee injury.

Junior Jim Dunaway, 250-pound hercules, is one of the strongest linemen in college football, but he hasn't moved fast enough to satisfy Vaught in practice. Neither has guard Bookie Bolin, another pre-season nominee with Dunaway and Smith on the Ole Miss honor roll.

"Right now I consider Billy Ray Jones my best guard," Vaught said. "Bolin should be, but he isn't."

Incidentally, Jones hails from our Mr. Paul Atkinson's home town of Summit, Miss.

The Rebs are well manned at tackle and guard. Jerry Brown returns at left tackle, supported by Rush McKay and Whaley Hall. Jim Roberts is dueling Dunaway for the starting assignment on the right side. Johnny Mitchell and Bill Basham are stand-ins for Jones and Bolin. Fred Lentjes, No. 1 center last year until he was wounded, is fit again and Kenny Dill and Richard Ross are available for relief duty.

Louisiana State, which has spoiled two perfect seasons for the Rebs, is the lone foe on a so-so slate rated a pre-season favorite. As usual, Ole Miss will be there or thereabouts at the wire.

Yankees Win Two, Mantle Clouts No. 53

Fans Attack Jimmy Piersall

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle crashed his 53rd home run and Roger Maris failed to add to his rush toward Babe Ruth's record Sunday while two games behind the pace Ruth set in 1927 when he smacked 60 homers.

Maris, observing his 27th birthday, has 56 home runs and is four games ahead of the Bambino's pace. Both Mantle and Maris have 10 team decisions in which to break the Babe's mark in 154 decisions, a limitation set by Commissioner Ford Frick for record-recognizing purposes.

In eight times at bat Sunday, Maris had two singles, flied out twice, fouled out once, popped out, and walked twice.

Mantle walked three times for a total of 119, homered, tripped, struck out, grounded out and hit

AROUSING PIERSALL AIMS SWIFT KICK AT FLEEING "ATTACKER"
Irate Cleveland Outfielder Turned Back Two Fans With Punches, Kicks

'CAME LIKE MADMEN' 'FIRST WIN IN 117 FIGHTS': PIERSALL

NEW YORK (AP)—"First fight I ever won," Jimmy Piersall said. "I've had 117 fights and this is my first victory."

Piersall was giving his version of his impromptu fist fights with two fans who raced out on the field and attacked him during the first game of Sunday's doubleheader between Cleveland and New York at Yankee Stadium.

"They came at me like madmen, hurling insults," the Indians' explosive center fielder said. "I could see fire in their eyes. One of them yelled, 'We'll get you, you nut,' and cocked his right hand to hit me."

"I didn't wait to hear any more. I got in the first punch. I got the first guy with a left hook and he went down. I hit the other with a right but the punch landed a little high on the temple and he stayed up."

"He tried to get away but I connected with a kick in his rear before the cops grabbed him."

Piersall was recounting the bizarre episode in the clubhouse during the rest period after the first game, won by the Yankees 7-6. It happened in full view of nearly 58,000 Yankee Stadium spectators and millions of television viewers.

"I'm glad I did it. My dad (who died last week) would have been proud of me. You've got to prove to those lunatics the field belongs to the players. They have no right on it. They can boo me all day as long as they remain in the stands. This should be a lesson to the other players. If some of the other players didn't get out of hand lately."

This was the second time in two weeks that a fan tried to attack Piersall only to get the worst of it. Two weeks ago today, in Cleveland, a fan charged at Jimmy but received a swift kick in the pants for his efforts.

"The other guy was lucky," Jimmy said. "I made up my mind then that the next guy who tried it would really be sorry. As I said, I don't mind their name calling, but lately they've been throwing punches at me. I'm not going to be a clay pigeon for those guys. I've got a glass chin and nobody is going to hit me if I can help it."

It was the liveliest scrap seen in Yankee Stadium in years. The entire Cleveland club ran out to help Piersall. Two Yankees came out to get a closer view. They were Coach Frank Crosetti and Mickey Mantle, who had just received a base on balls from pitcher Bobby Locke.

"I take my hat off to that Mantle," said Piersall. "He just stood by but he was ready to help. He wasn't worried about his 32 home runs. He's sick of this thing, too."

"I'll bet those two guys will never try anything like that again."

Cincy Rips Cards, 5-2, Moves Up

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wally Post's three-run homer and two-hit pitching by Bob Purkey brought Cincinnati a 5-2 victory over St. Louis Sunday—and a National League lead of four games as San Francisco beat second place Los Angeles, 7-1.

The victory gave the Reds a sweep of their last three games of the season against the Cardinals.

Purkey, winning his 16th game of the year as against 10 defeats didn't allow a hit until the sixth. The two singles the Cards got in that frame represented the total batting offense they were bale to mount against the veteran right-hander.

He also drove in one of the Reds' runs.

In addition to Post's homer, Purkey also got some notable batting help from Vada Pinson who had two singles and a double in three official trips to the plate.

Frank Robinson's hitting miseries continued, however. He got one single but three times he failed to get the ball out of the infield with men on base. Once the bases were full.

Post's game winning blast over the centerfield wall—his 18th homer of the season—came in the seventh after Pinson doubled and Robinson beat out an infield single.

Von Trips Loses Control, Dies as Car Slams Crowd

MONZA, Italy (AP)—Phil Hill of the United States won a tragedy-marred Grand Prix of Italy auto race Sunday in which German driver Wolfgang Von Trips and 11 spectators were killed.

British racer Gerald Ashmore was injured seriously. Twenty five spectators including five Swiss and two Germans, were hurt when Baron Von Trips' Ferrari hurtled into a crowd packed elbow to elbow.

The race continued with shocked crowds pushed back and cars roaring around the track for two hours past the bodies of the dead strewn over the grass and covered with newspapers.

Hill, from Santa Monica, Calif., whipped into the lead after Von Trips' car figured in a three-way crash with two Lotus racers driven by Britons Jimmy Clark and Ashmore. Clark was not hurt.

Hill knew there had been an accident, but had not been told anyone died. At the end of the race, as he beamed with happiness while the American anthem was played, he learned what had happened. He burst into tears and was too shocked to speak.

The victory clinched the 1961 world driving championship for Hill. The American now has 33 points, the same as Von Trips had compiled in the first six races, but the German had a lower placing score. Stirling Moss of Britain was third with 21 points and no chance to catch Hill with only one race left.

Palmer Wallops Player;
Boat Crash Kills Hayward

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Firing in the 61st annual National Golf Championships begins Monday with a pair of buddies, Deane Beman of Arlington, Va., and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, the ones to beat in a select field of 200 competitors.

Beman is the present champion and begins defense of his title by taking on young Harry Allers of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., at 10:42 a.m. EST, in a first-round duel. Nicklaus, the 1959 champion when only 19, has a first-round bye.

Except for their youth and golfing abilities, the two pals couldn't be more dissimilar. Beman is short, of average build. Nicklaus is tall, a 200-pounder and powerful. Beman is quiet and works his way around a course with deftness. Nicklaus is carefree and belts the ball a country mile.

Yet they are the closest of friends and when in a common tournament do all their practicing together.

The youngsters will head the week-long parade of the world's best amateurs over the Pebble Beach layout that stretches for matches to three. One match ended in a tie.

Starting pitcher Ray Sadecki was the victim of Post's big hit. It was his eighth defeat as against 13 victories.

Purkey helped out his own cause in the fifth when he doubled in Post who had opened the inning with a two-base wallop.

A walk to Curt Flood after two were out started the Cards toward their tying runs in the sixth. It was followed by a passed ball, a stolen base and singles by Julian Javier and Bill White.

FOR NATIONAL TITLES

EMERSON SURPRISES LAVER; HARD BREEZES BY HAYDON

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., came back from a two months' layoff to retain her women's crown and Australian Roy Emerson turned the tables on his heavily favored teammate, Rod Laver, Sunday in the finals of the national tennis championships.

Miss Hard, her strong serve-and-volley game sizzling, needed only 47 minutes to dispose of her old nemesis, British Wightman Cupper Ann Haydon, 6-3, 6-4. Miss Haydon had won six of eight matches from Darlene last year.

Emerson, gaunt, 25-year-old product of a Queensland peanut-growing community, started a Sunday crowd of 10,000 at the West Side Tennis Club by overpowering Laver, the Wimbledon winner, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

The red-haired Laver, whose high-kicking left-handed service and swift racket action had established him as the world's top amateur and a target for Jack Kramer's pros, was an overwhelming favorite to take the U.S. crown.

However, Emerson, who beat Laver for the Australian national title last January, seemed to have his countryman's number. He slashed Laver's steaming service back with sharp, angled returns and he dominated the match by outclassing and outclassing his Davis Cup mate at the net.

The win gave the Giants a sweep of their final 3-game series with Los Angeles and dropped the Dodgers to four games behind National League leading Cincinnati. The Reds beat St. Louis 5-2 at Cincinnati.

Gen. Walker Hints At Civil Legal Action

By HANSON W. BALDWIN

(Copyright 1961 by the New York Times Co.)

HEIDELBERG, Germany — The case of Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, which has created a storm in Washington and in Europe, opened a new chapter Sunday.

Gen. Walker, who was relieved and orally admonished because of a troop information program he sponsored, issued his first public statement in months.

NOT CLEARED BY ARMY

The statement, a personal one, which was neither released nor officially approved by the Army, hinted at the possibility of "civil legal" action and declared that until he could "return to the states" he was "unable to say" whether he could "appear before any committee."

Gen. Walker, who was relieved as division commander of the 24th Division last spring and was later given an official oral admonition has been on duty here since his release at the headquarters of the U.S. Army, Europe.

For more than four months he has been filling a colonel's billet as an assistant G-3 or operations officer on the staff of Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander-in-chief, U.S. Army, Europe.

Gen. Walker, who had an outstanding combat record in World War II and Korea, is described by those who know him as a dedicated, sincere, deeply patriotic officer with fervent and intense anti-Communist beliefs. His superiors agree that the 24th Division under his command was the best, or one of the best, in the European theatre.

CAUSES FOR REPRIMAND

Gen. Walker's relief was based upon his sponsorship of a troop information program, which it was alleged used materials of the John Birch Society and was aggressively anti-Communist. He was also accused of making inflammatory and derogatory statements about a number of prominent Americans and of trying to influence the votes of his troops and their families.

His relief from command and assignment to Heidelberg were ordered by the Pentagon before the investigation ordered by Gen. Clarke was completed. The investigation was made by Lt. Gen. Frederick J. Brown, formerly a corps commander in Germany, now in command of Allied land forces, Southeastern Europe. Gen. Brown, at Gen. Clarke's direction, acted as an inspector general to determine the facts in the case.

The voluminous report and its conclusions have been the subject of testimony by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to the Senate Armed Services Committee in the past few days. On McNamara's direction, the report is to be declassified and turned over to the Senate committee tomorrow, an action that officers said was unprecedented.

Gen. Walker has been besieged by telephone calls from Europe and the United States in the past few days since McNamara's testimony. Apparently the statement he issued Sunday was in response to many inquiries and to collect, even though inferentially, numerous verbs, adjectives and statements employed in press accounts to describe his relief and the reasons for it.

The full statement, which

MAKES STATEMENT
Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker

Walker declined to expand, follows:

"Until I can return to the states, I am unable to say that I can appear before any committee."

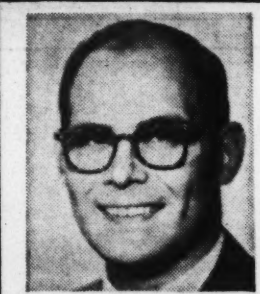

"The release of a military investigation is very unusual. I have read in the papers that it is being released and the terms the papers are using bring up many questions: 'charged,' 'violated,' 'disciplined,' 'reprimanded,' 'official reprimand,' 'it is found,' 'held,' 'program,' 'Hatch Act,' 'U.S. code,' 'Articles of War,' 'Army regulations,' 'Overseas Weekly,' 'allegations,' 'censorship,' 'further action,' 'relieved of command,' 'eccentric,' and 'communism.'"

"Such terms could only be evaluated by an American civil legal council."

"The recent usage and handling of the military investigation are far from well known to me. I have not been given or shown a copy but have been told that I would receive one. I have not seen Gen. Frederick Brown's determinations. He was not the reviewing authority in Europe."

The "reviewing authority in Europe" referred to in statement was Gen. Clarke.

Plant Sawan Seeds Now for Permanent Green Lawn

Electric 'Zone' Heating Brings Comfort to New Room Additions

When Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Girardeau added two new rooms to their Bramblewood Dr., N.E. home, one of their most important considerations had to do with providing a convenient way of heating this new addition.

Since the new "suite" had been designed to house the nursery and children's room, they sought to provide gentle warmth floor to ceiling.

And, since the heating requirements for each room were apt to vary from time to time, they decided that thermostatically-controlled "zone" heat was all but a necessity.

Like so many other couples planning room additions, the Girardeaus discovered that electric, baseboard-type installations represent the ultimate in heating comfort.

The slim modern-styled units fit snugly against the wall, taking up none of the living space while spreading a gentle blanket of balanced warmth over floors and outer walls. Provided the rooms in which electric baseboard units are installed are properly insulated and constructed—as they were at the Girardeau home—installation costs are surprisingly economical.

Since the units are designed so that the homeowner can select the exact right temperature for each room, they result in automatic heating comfort for each living area where installed.

As with other homeowners throughout the state, the installation of electric heat also paved the way for full housepower at the Girardeau residence. The installation of electric heat coupled with the use of an electric range may qualify a homeowner to participate in the highly-popular and worthwhile Georgia Power Wiring Program, whereby the Power Company pays a substantial portion of the rewiring costs.

Mrs. H. S. Girardeau points to the modern styling of this electric baseboard-type heating unit, installed in the two room additions at the Girardeau residence on Bramblewood Dr., N.E. See story for details on how the installation of electric heat opened the way to Full Housepower for this family.

To help Georgia citizens Live Better—Electrically—the company is paying up to $200 toward the installation of adequate service entrance facilities in the homes it serves. The service entrance facilities installed are designed to serve the expected power requirements of the future, as well as those of today, so that you can add to your stock of modern electric conveniences whenever you choose.

To qualify a customer must install certain 230-volt circuits and appliances. The payments are being made to the electric contractor doing the work.

If you're planning to build a home or expand and modernize the home where you're living, give some thought to electric heat. In addition to baseboard, there are many other types—one of which will provide the answer to just the right heat, exactly where you want it.

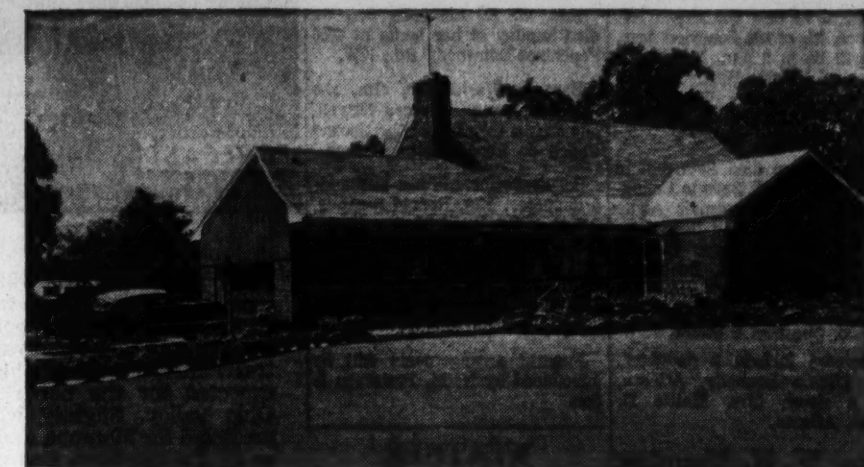

While you're modernizing, get the full particulars about the wonderful Georgia Power Wiring Program from one of the electrical contractors listed in the ad below. A small down payment will start you on the way to Better Living—Electrically.

Costs Less Than Using Seasonal Grasses Yearly

Early fall is the best time of year to plant a new lawn or to re-establish an old lawn with Sawan's "Permanent Green" Grass Seed Blends. Planted now, these seeds will germinate quickly, develop healthy root systems and provide you with a green lawn this winter. Fast-growing Sawan grass seed blends continue to sink stronger roots into the soil as a thick, lush, low-growing carpet covers your lawn.

Sawan's "Permanent Green" blends do not contain any rough pasture grasses like Kentucky 31 or alta fescues. The superior Sawan seed mixtures are blends of fine lawn grasses developed especially for Southern soils and climates, including such fine varieties as Pennlawn fescue, Zoysia japonica, creeping red fescue, bent, and other turf grasses with spreading characteristics.

Sawan's specially blended mixture of perennial grasses can be planted for less than it costs to plant seasonal grasses over and over, year after year. In fact, you can buy Sawan seed for from 20 to 35 per cent less than rep-

Lawn experts advise you to plant now for best results. Early fall planting of Sawan "Permanent Green" Grass Seed will assure you of a green lawn this winter, and a beautiful, thick carpet year-round. Sawan "Permanent Green" contains no rye or rough pasture grasses. (See story) table blends of comparable analysis. There is a Sawan "Permanent Green" mixture for sun, and one for shade. Each provides a thick, green turf that stays beautiful the whole year.

Both blends — Sawan's "Permanent Green" for Sun, and "Permanent Green" for Shade — are available in handy 5, 25, and 100-pound bags. Each has planting instructions, and an analysis showing the exact percentages of each grass the mixture contains.

For best results plant grass now. Ask for Sawan "Permanent Green" Lawn Seed at garden supply stores, hardware stores, and other seed dealers. For the name and address of your nearest Sawan dealer, contact Sawan, Inc., 690 Murphy Ave., S.W., telephone PL 5-1645.

Act Before Ants and Roaches Come Calling

Every home, whether rich or poor, is a target for attack by roaches, ants, weevils, and other bugs. Don't wait until you see them. Prevent them from invading your home. Your insurance is Johnston's No-Roach, the modern way to control cockroaches and ants. This brush-on product is by far the best, because:

- (a) It is so easy to use.
- (b) One application lasts for months.
- (c) The coating is colorless, odorless, and stainless.
- (d) There's no need to move dishes and food, or breathe harmful sprays.
- (e) It's safe to use around children and pets.

Just brush No-Roach liberally on cabinets and baseboards, window sills and door steps, in cracks, around drainpipes and under sinks—wherever crawling insects might appear.

This takes only a few minutes. No-Roach dries quickly to form a colorless, odorless coating which stays effective for months against cockroaches, ants, waterbugs, spiders, silverfish—all crawling insects. Once an insect approaches this invisible film, it is doomed to die, as No-Roach affects its delicate nervous system.

No-Roach works where other products fail. So be safe and sure with Johnston's No-Roach. 8 oz. 88c. pint $1.69. Available at Rich's.

Mail Order Intrigue Has An International Flavor

A friend who recently pulled up roots in Atlanta to marry an elegant continental cinema producer astonished her circle by revealing that she had bought her wedding gown and complete trousseau from a mail order catalogue.

An Atlantan who commutes between Naples and the Baltimore Block was not at all diverted by this little touch of unsophistication. She saw no incongruity in it at all.

"Doesn't everybody order from a catalogue?" she raised bland eyebrows. "Everybody I know in Italy certainly does. And France too. Who can afford a couturier's prices?"

Come to find out, nobody but Mme. Renault, Senora Fiat and Frau Kharman Khia. They also have a little midinette around the corner, stitching away in a dark garret.

Not every foreign national can get around the duties, tariffs, etc., of his own country, but when one does he probably gets an item that came from Europe in the first place. Paris fashions, Scotch tweeds, English cashmeres, Irish linens, Italian silks, Spanish leathers, all find their way back to their native heath by way of an order desk in Philadelphia and a quick trip by air post.

Ocean freight is used only for massive items and there are ingenious ways of avoiding it. One order for 4,000 pounds of floor tile was broken down in 60 packages, all within parcel post limits.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. has been in the export business for 25 years and thinks nothing of orders from Africa, Middle East, South America, the Caribbean, Greenland, Central America, Newfoundland, Labrador, Alaska, Asia, Central Pacific Island, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand. The company has 100,000 catalogues in the hands of American embassy legations, military missions and civilians overseas. APO and FPO postal officers have a waiting list for catalogues addressed to persons who have been shipped to other posts.

Merchandise for overseas consumption funnels through Sears' Philadelphia office, which sends about nine per cent of its dresses abroad, ten per cent of its sportswear, seven per cent of its women's coats and nearly 14 per cent of its children's gear.

It also ships sewing machines, piece goods and recently refused to fill an order for a small printing press for a customer who wished to make homemade francs in France. His letter asked that the printing plates be placed inside a mattress for safe shipment.

Wherever Americans are displaced, there are lonely families. They write to Sears as to an old friend. "My baby arrived early, so I am returning the layette. I am enclosing a picture to show you our little darling." "Your cream separator for our Belem, Para farm was delivered to our town's hotel on Sunday morning. Won't Brazil be surprised at our cows now?" "Please send me more Peter Gunn. And some Rock and Roll Records. You know what I like."

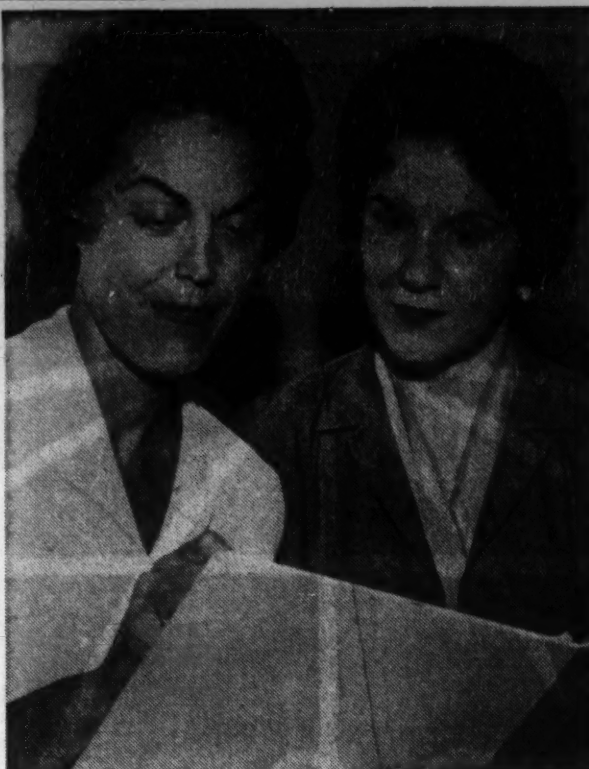

Recently President Joseph Kasavubu of the Republic of Congo had beseeched the State Department's liaison man to procure him a mail order catalogue. When the catalogue arrived President Kasavubu wished to order some shoes.

He did not know his size.

He removed his sandal. It was marked size 43. The astonished liaison man asked if he could trace the Kasavubu foot.

After this kindness Mr. Kasavubu ordered blankets, dishes, three different patterns of goblets, underclothing and table linen.

The proper shoe size was never discussed. The liaison man was more than a salesman. He was a diplomat.

Entre Nous Theater Guild's First Ball Highlights Social Calendar

A TRIO of "hunting widows" will add feminine pulchritude to the first annual ball to be given Friday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club by the Theater Atlanta Women's Guild.

They are: Mrs. J. Mason Baird, who serves as invitations chairman; Mrs. Ben S. Read and Mrs. Sam Perry.

If you are surprised, relax. The three matrons are all married to doctors, who planned a hunting trip for next weekend before realizing that the fabulous dinner dance will be one of the gayest of the season. So the girls are merrily referring to themselves as "hunting widows."

The Guild's first annual ball will attract a galaxy of Atlantans, who will sip cocktails at seven, dine at eight and dance to Freddy DeLand's 17 piece orchestra.

During dinner a fashion show featuring evening originals for theatergoers, will be produced by Jacqueline De Betts.

Tables have been reserved by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Storz, Mr. and Mrs. Donald West, Mrs. Ruth Welchel and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Therrell, who will be with Mr. and Mrs. Irving Levenson.

Ball chairman, Mrs. James E. Williams and Mr. Williams will have at their table Mr. and Mrs. George Freyden, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cartledge are assembling a large party. Mrs. Cartledge is Guild president.

Among the 24 guests to be seated with the Charles Landreth are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Liller, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McLendon, Mr. and Mrs. William Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Ehlers, Dick Maure, Mrs. Lela Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stubbs and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reith.

Mrs. Deland, wife of the name band leader, will be escorted by Dr. Arnold Ingemann. Among those at their table will be Mr. and Mrs. Mike Benton.

Forming a party will be Mrs. Valerie B. Foster, Mrs. Jack Pappenheimer, Mrs. Sidney Yancey, Mrs. L. Rooker and Mrs. John L. Kunzelmann. Reservations have also been made by Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Lokey and Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. McLoughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Howell and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Maddox are among additional guests planning to attend.

Admission to the ball is by donation sent to Mrs. Charles Landreth, treasurer of Theater Atlanta Women's Guild.

FASHIONABLY GOWNED socialites noted at the luncheon given at the Piedmont Driving Club by the Multiple Sclerosis Society included Mrs. Imman Brandon, Mrs. Charles Younts, Mrs. Elizabeth Bradley, Mrs. A. S. Canfield, Mrs. Ernest Vandiver and Mrs. M. S. Ellis.

FORMER ATLANTANS Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregg of Gainesville, Fla., left Sunday to spend the month of September at High Hampton, N.C., which has been their custom for several years. They spent last week at the Georgian Terrace Hotel.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN ELSAS and Mrs. Georgiana Johnson have sailed from Montreal, Canada, aboard the Empress of Britain for Liverpool, via Greenock, Scotland.

MRS. KELLIS BOLAND and her daughter, Lorraine, left Saturday for DePaul University, where the latter has enrolled as a freshman.

Mrs. Boland will return Tuesday to complete plans for the Fashions and Diamonds luncheon show sponsored by the Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Assn., of which she is chairman. The show will be held Thursday at the Piedmont Driving Club for the benefit of the Emory University Children's Clinic.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM S. YEATES have returned from Chattanooga, where they spent several weeks, and are at the Georgian Terrace Hotel.

MRS. WARNER A. BONNER of Manchester is visiting her sister, Mrs. Nicholas Watkins on Cumberland Road before leaving to visit in N. Falls and Georgia, Canada.

MRS. DELMONT BECKE-MEYER and infant son, James Newton, have returned to their home on Tree Haven Drive from Piedmont Hospital, where the baby was born Aug. 28. His mother is the former Frances Howell of Athens.

Perch Hats Tip-Tilted, Advises Milliner Eason During Collection Preview

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER
Constitution Fashion Editor

Fall never goes to the heads of Atlanta women until Archie Eason shows. And the way you can tell he has shown is the sudden appearance of a host of little green sequins.

Mysterious? Not in the least to the woman who knows her hats. For some 13 years now—that's how long Mr. Eason has been creating chapeaux—the tiny flash of green has been synonymous with the pleasingly unexpected in millinery. His hats are more than hats and partly because he mirrors the devotion with which each was designed. This devotion is in the form of striving only to make a woman more beautiful with a hat than without.

NEW SLANT

And the green sequin, placed inconspicuously on every hat, is the next best thing to wearing the label of your hat on the outside. It's more like his appreciation to you for choosing his hat and your appreciation to him for making you look so pretty.

In Atlanta recently with his fall collection, Mr. Eason had a new look for himself as well as for you. His sandy hair, sunbleached even more blond after a vacation on the Florida beaches, was clipped to a brush.

"It's in honor of the new slant to my hats this season," laughed the genial milliner. "Everything is tip-tilted to the side. It's not the old profile look; this is a new young perch. The hat may be very tiny, perched forward, or go into big open mushroom brims. Suits and coats are ideal for the large hats. The tiny things are good with every fashion."

Definitely the kidding type with a sense of humor that few in his profession would dare, Mr. Eason believes a woman should receive enjoyment from her hat. He admits that some of his creations are mad but he would never let a woman with the wrong type of personality for a mad hat walk out in one.

Perhaps much of his success may be attributed to that—he works very closely with the woman choosing one of his hats. He said it gives him wonderful ideas for creations. In fact, he will create especially for you, if you like.

LOTS OF VELVET

The master of texture, Mr. Eason has worked with lots of velvet this fall. One of these is the maddest in three gradations of blue with a medium crown and stitched ripple brim. It is caged in a wonderful tangle of biot feathers.

His little perchy velvet in black takes a shine for dress with a satin apple pin cushion resting on the crown. Also in velvet in a soft blue shade is a manipulated beret, titled as you would expect. What looks like a white bow across the front is really a bow made of feathers.

Fur is another of the opulent materials to which Mr. Eason likes to apply his special talents. For instance, a tip-tilted breton appears in rust musketeer dotted by large circles of contrasting, dark and light, jersey. A wide-brimmed velvet hat is layered over with sumptuous black fox and turquoise streamers to one side.

For shopping information, call JA. 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card to the Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

New Emory Trainees Aim To Bridge That Medical Communications Gap

By JEAN ROONEY

Millions of U.S. dollars are currently pouring into medical research and there's been no way to communicate this new knowledge," stresses Miss Mildred Jordan, director of Emory's A.W. Calhoun Medical Library.

This communications lag spurred trim, energetic Miss Jordan to action. The result is the first five-year training program for interns in medical librarianship, financed by the U.S. Public Health Service.

The first three recipients are: Lee Ann Whittle of Shamrock, Texas; Mary Ann Brown of Nashville, Tenn., and Tony Dees of Goldsboro, N.C.

The high-I.Q. young people, all in their early 20s, already hold master's degrees in library science. Now they are adding a medical librarianship specialty to their literary background.

"They're guinea pigs," reports Miss Jordan, who not only instigated the program but now directs it.

She considers it a pilot program to spread later to other medical centers over the country. The University of California at Los Angeles is piloting the program on the West Coast.

Starting their internship in June, the trio has spent the summer digging in the new language of today's medicine.

"For example, the difference in hypertension and hypotension," Miss Jordan explained.

They are memorizing terms and their definitions . . . cow-drisk, cremothrix . . . cresols.

"They will need a broad, general knowledge of the field," Miss Jordan explains. "They won't come out as medical specialists."

But even a superficial knowledge requires familiarity with thousands of medical terms.

Equally important, the young librarians must make a close acquaintance with hundreds of medical periodicals and journals which supply the field with its most current information.

"We take about 900 journals now and hope to build up to several thousand," Miss Jordan explains. The interns are studying the general content of each.

Lee Ann and Mary Ann have a heavy science background, at Southwest University (Georgetown, Texas) and Peabody College, respectively.

Tall, dark-haired Lee Ann considered the medical technology field and blonde Mary Ann once expected to teach biology.

Tony switched from pre-med studies to liberal arts at the University of North Carolina, then turned to library science. All three are intensely interested in medicine.

Their biggest hurdle comes this fall when they add formal courses at Emory to their on-the-job training in the medical library.

They will take: Physiology 457 on the graduate level and the History of the Basic Health Sciences which covers anatomy, microbiology, biochemistry and other natural sciences.

They will only audit the physiology course.

Then if all goes well they hope to progress to survey courses in the clinical sides of medicine—internal, pediatrics, surgery and so on.

The smart trio are amazingly calm about attempting their specialized classes.

"We're more worried about living up to Miss Jordan's standards," Mary Ann says.

New Food Frontier

Citrus Fruits In Spotlight As New Classical Cuisine

By PATRICIA DEATON

Constitution Food Editor

CHICAGO—Interest is at a new high in classical cuisine. And if you're one who likes to explore and create new ideas, your imagination, with a little help, will be inspired by elaborate foods that are sure to tickle and captivate those palates.

In Chicago's Drake Hotel, food is developing that fashionable classical touch. And newspaper food editors from all over the country are highly in favor of the new look.

During the coming week, editors will see once-familiar foods in a new dress and at the same time they will sample the dramatic foods that are a part of the "New Frontier."

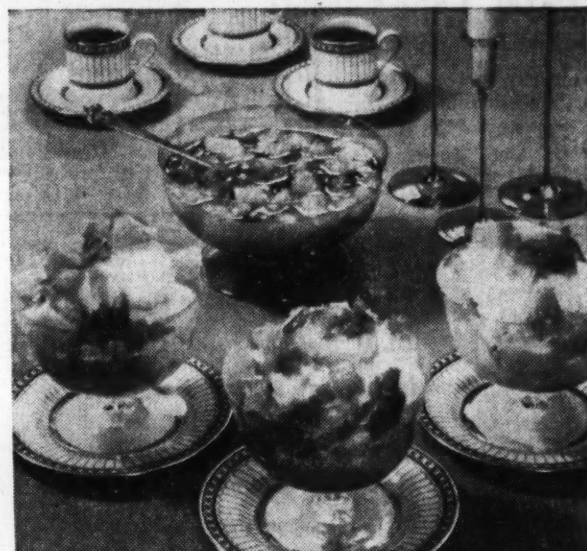

To get the annual conference on the road, the Florida Citrus Commission entertained with a brunch that definitely displayed a gourmet touch.

The festive occasion was held in a suite overlooking Lake Michigan. With this enchanting view and the gay menu, our appetites couldn't help but be whetted. The brunch fare starred citrus recipes for soups, fish and meat main courses, desserts, hot breads and beverages.

Turning to the popularity of desserts, an exciting dish on the menu was the Grecian Orange Sauce served over ice cream. It's easy to make and something which may be prepared well in advance.

GRECIAN ORANGE SAUCE
6 Florida oranges
Water
3 cups sugar
1/4 cup currant jelly

Wash oranges, remove thin orange-colored top of the rind in small pieces with potato peeler. Put peel in saucepan with two cups water; bring to a boil; boil 15 minutes; drain. Cut oranges into eighths; drain juice. Measure juice and add water, if necessary, to make 1 cup; combine in saucepan with sugar and currant jelly; stir and bring to a boil and cook 25 minutes. Add cooked peel and continue cooking until mixture comes to soft ball stage (230 degrees F.) on candy thermometer, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat and add orange eights. Cover and store in refrigerator at least 8 hours. Serve as sauce for ice cream. About one quart.

With time so short during the full week of new foods and food ideas, Walter S. McIlhenny, whose Tabasco is known 'round the world, was host at a reception for editors Saturday evening in the hotel.

A treat as good as anything we ever lifted to our mouth was Koftas. The small meat balls are flavored with an unusual spice of cardamom, cinnamon, cloves and chili.

These spices are often used in beef dishes and impart a delectable flavor which is heightened

KOFTAS

1 medium sweet red pepper, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons ground coriander
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1 pound ground steak
4 tablespoons butter or margarine

Combine minced onion, pepper and garlic, coriander, salt, cinnamon, cloves, cardamom, chili powder and Tabasco; mix well. Add meat and mix thoroughly. Form into 1-inch balls. Brown quickly in melted butter, shaking pan to prevent sticking. Yield: 8 to 10 hors d'oeuvre servings; four main-dish servings.

Good Health Lichen Planus Itch Tough, Not Serious

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Mr. Molner: Please write about lichen planus. What causes it, the treatment, how long it takes to get rid of it? Also, if you do not treat it, what happens, if anything?—H.H.

Maybe you will forgive me if I go at these questions backward. If you don't treat lichen planus, it itches.

Next to last question: I don't know what causes it, and I don't know how long is required to get rid of it. But I do know some treatments.

Lichen planus is one of several skin diseases which stem from unknown causes. It's not especially common but neither is it rare. It's the sort of thing that every doctor recognizes easily. No doctor will promise to cure it, but sometimes he can.

Lichen planus consists of some pimply-like eruptions which most commonly appear in places like the bend of the wrist, mouth, genitals and legs. Lichen planus appears as a consequence (for one thing) of certain drugs. A particular one is atabrine, used so widely in World War II in the armed forces to suppress malaria. Keep this in mind, for there's a very odd fact involved. In rare cases some other drugs may touch it off. Also, there may be, in some people, an allergy to sunlight. It is rare but possible. And it can appear as a skin reaction to leukemia. I don't imply that these facts give us any clue.

The vast majority of cases occur without any of the above factors present. Something else is the real cause.

Lichen planus isn't very unsightly or very noticeable. Some itching is the principal discomfort.

In spite of the fact that atabrine touches off some attacks, the strange fact is that sometimes the use of anti-malaria drugs brings relief. Soothing baths and hydrocortisone ointments sometimes help.

More recently it has been discovered that injections of hydrocortisone directly into the troubled skin can be very helpful but this is true only when the area involved is very small.

To summarize, lichen planus is an itchy nuisance, the cause eludes us, sometimes we can cure it but more often we are disappointed. It's not a dangerous ailment but it certainly is a vivid example of one problem that still mystifies us.

Have you ever encountered anyone who claimed to hear his blood pulsing through his ears and still claimed no ill effects?

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observation. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S SAFETY GUARDED BY POLICEMAN
Mrs. E. R. Martin Keeps Children on Curb at Clark Howell School

This is Georgia....

Happy Children Skip Along With Danger a Step Behind

By FRANK WELLS

The three o'clock bell pops the cork and the champagne of youth comes bubbling out of the red brick school buildings all over Georgia.

Some start walking home—but many run, and jump, and shove, and generally play boisterously down the sidewalks.

Some board the big, broad yellow busses for their ride home.

CARELESS DISREGARD

But all walk into danger when they walk down the steps of the school building—exuberant over freedom and with youth's careless disregard of the danger.

Last year throughout the country 4,700 children were killed and 220,000 injured in all sorts of traffic accidents—not all of them involved in the trip to or from school, of course, but this is the twice-daily concentration that produces the most danger.

"People still drive too fast through school zones," DeKalb County policeman Mrs. Elizabeth Letson said just before the afternoon rush of children from Knollwood School reached her busy corner at Columbia and Santa Monica drives.

DRIVERS RUSH ON

"They don't want to stop on this busy street. One woman came on through this morning, but she'll get a stiff talking to and she won't do it again."

The school patrolmen are a big help, Mrs. Letson said. "They keep the children from pushing each other into the street at the corner."

As she talked, two seventh-grade boys stood with arms outstretched, keeping the younger children back on the curb.

The bright clothes and bright faces of the children kept pouring up the sidewalk to Columbia—where the sidewalk ended. "I hope they'll put a sidewalk on this street when they widen it," Mrs. Letson said. "You can see how busy it is."

Mrs. Letson stood out in the middle of the street and directed traffic with very definite motions of her white-gloved hands.

After the child traffic slowed up a bit, Mrs. Letson gave some good safety rules for those walking to and from school. "If there is a sidewalk, stay on it," she said. "If not, walk facing traffic so you can see what's coming."

WALK, DON'T RUN

"Don't run—walk. Don't chase other children or push the smaller ones," she continued.

"And don't take any rides with strangers—this is very important."

Mrs. Letson had a word for parents: "Don't ever frighten your children by threatening them with a policeman. Teach them that policemen and women are their friends and are there to help them."

The big yellow busses have their problems, too, but evidently have pretty well solved the safety problem. Only one school-bus-riding child was killed in the past 18 months.

The busses have big flashing lights and you are supposed to stop your car when you see one stopped—either overtaking or meeting the bus. Children live on both sides of the road.

HELP OUT

Here, too, the older children help keep the young ones safe by getting out of the bus and making sure the way is clear before letting the young ones cross the road.

Mrs. Letson is proud of "her" Knollwood children. "The older ones set good examples for the younger ones, and help out all they can," she said.

These bright September days—good walking weather—are also the dangerous ones for the school children.

Quit West Or Perish, Iran Told

By JOSEPH MAZANDI

By United Press International

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Russia has warned Iran that it faces nuclear destruction "in the not too distant future" unless it pulls out of the Central Treaty Organization, it was disclosed Sunday.

But Premier Ali Amini said Iran would not be cowed. He shrugged off the threat as another "bluff" in the Kremlin's campaign to force Iran out of its Western alliances and into neutralism—or communism.

High-ranking government officials said the threat of nuclear devastation had been coming regularly from Moscow radio and was repeated recently by Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Pegov in an interview with Iranian Foreign Minister Hossein Ghods-Nakai.

Other Soviet officials here have been spreading word that "since we are now convinced of the Iranian government's aggressive intentions against the Soviet Union, we are preparing all possible means to prevent the realization of such moves by Iran and her Anglo-American Allies."

Observers here are convinced

Ben-Gurion Drops Demand For a Majority in Cabinet

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion is no longer insisting on a majority for his Mapai party in a new coalition cabinet, informed observers said Sunday.

The shift was seen as opening the way for solution of Israel's cabinet-forming deadlock.

This became known after a meeting of the Mapai secretariat which followed Ben-Gurion's dramatic refusal last week to accept a mandate to form a new government.

However, Ben-Gurion was said to be adamant on his demand a coalition cabinet act as a united body and that its meetings be made secret by law.

Mapai holds 42 seats in the Knesset (parliament) elected Aug. 15. The four parties which could join a coalition cabinet hold a total of 46 seats but their leaders have insisted they will not let Mapai have a majority of posts in a Ben-Gurion cabinet.

Iran will be the next East-West flashpoint and expect the crisis here to heat up if and when the Berlin dispute is ended. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev himself has predicted a Communist revolution in this Mideastern country.

The Soviet news agency Tass kicked off the latest phase of the campaign recently when it published CENTO "documents" purporting to prove that the West was planning to drop nuclear bombs along the Soviet-Iranian border to create a "death zone" if war broke out.

The CENTO members—Iran, Pakistan, Turkey and Britain—and the United States immediately branded the "documents" as forgeries and said no such plan exists.

But the Soviet Union has ignored all denials and has repeated its claim that America plans to attack Russia from Iran. Recently, Soviet embassy officials have been distributing Persian-language copies of the CENTO "documents" around Tehran.

These officials also talk openly about invoking a clause of Russia's 1921 treaty with Iran. This clause gave the Soviets the right to occupy Iran if Soviet security demanded. Russian troops marched into the country in 1941 on the pretext that German businessmen were hiding out here.

Shriver Says Peace Corps Free of Reds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The director of the Peace Corps said Sunday he saw "no possibility" of any Communists or subversives infiltrating the organization.

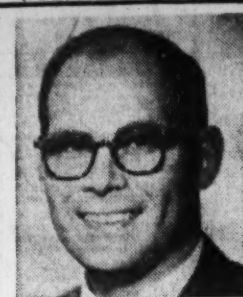

R. Sargent Shriver said the FBI makes a full field investigation of every volunteer before he is sent overseas.

He made the comments in a television interview with Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, R-N.Y. The congressman said he was glad that all the Peace Corps members are going to be "good red-blooded Americans."

Shriver said applicants were also required to fill out a lengthy, detailed questionnaire and submit six letters of reference. In addition, they must take a 5½-hour written examination. The Peace Corps director said that once a volunteer is accepted he must undergo psychiatric tests and physical examinations as well. A training program also is required.

Under the Lights Dick Clark Proves Ability in New Film

By STUART CULPEPPER

Until now, best known as the star of ABC-TV's "American Bandstand" (with an estimated audience of over 5,000,000), Dick Clark is finally making a new name for himself—ACTOR!

The nation's top daytime TV idol, Dick plays his first really dramatic screen role in "The Young Doctors." He appears in the movie with some top-notch talent, including Frederick March, Eddie Albert and Ben Gazzara, and proves that he can stand right up to them in the acting department—well, almost.

Anyway, his debut is a sound success and no small amount of the movie's warmth and emotion is due to his performance.

He had appeared in one movie previously, something ghastly called "Because They're Young," but I'm sure that both

Culpepper

Clark and his fans had rather forget all about that one.

A modest, quiet young man of 31, he was born Richard Wagstaff Clark, Nov. 30, 1929. He was once a disc jockey on a show where he was billed as "Cactus Dick" and he played country music. The music he played then was no worse than the garish cacophony he grinds out now via records on his "Bandstand" show.

It is rumored that Dick has a record collection of some 15,000 records. If they are typical of what he spins for his TV show, it's no wonder he has been having family troubles.

THEATRE ATLANTA opens its fall season Sept. 9, with George Bernard Shaw's allegori-

Stations Air Plans To Cover Elections

WAGA-TV and WSB-TV will start flashing up-to-the-minute coverage of the city primary election returns, Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 p.m., exactly one half hour after the polls close.

WAGA-TV will use the famed Remington Rand "Univac" as tabulator with Jacees calling in returns from 69 polling places. Its election coverage will originate from the Channel 5 studios and at Emory University's Univac Data Processing Center. It will take only one minute for the electric brain to receive a new precinct report and come out with a total of all previous figures.

Dale Clark, WAGA-TV's director of public affairs, will host the telecast at Emory, while News Editor Ed Blair will be talking with current office holders about election trends.

WSB-TV will operate from the newsroom of the Atlanta Constitution, with Ray Moore as moderator. Exclusive on Channel 2, Mayor William B. Hartsfield will offer analytical commentary as the reports come in for tabulation.

The returns will be handed to auditor John Cook and his staff who will use high speed computers and the information will be on the air in a matter of minutes.

WSB-TV's 11 p.m., newsroom program will cover a complete news roundup of the elections and the results.

As I See It

Young Charmer Opens Season

By PAUL JONES

On Wednesday next a pert brunette girl singer who has never had a TV show of her own will step before cameras at ABC-TV Central, a red light on Camera No. 1 will wink at her, and the new fall TV season will be off to a slow but reasonably sound beginning.

The singer is Connie Francis, a five-three hunk of feminine charm who belts out a song like an Eddie Cantor, an Al Jolson or, more appropriately, a Jo Stafford.

Obviously not bothered by superstition—the 13th being her starting date—Connie will lead off a week which will find such pleasures as Nat Hiken's highly regarded "Car 54, Where Are You," a comedy show which purports to show that policemen are actually people; "International Showtime," a sort of poor man's "Ed Sullivan Show"; "Follow the Sun," a continuing series about a pair of writers who have found that working with a typewriter is easier than handling a shovel; and "The Defenders," a drama series devoted to the proposition that there's something interesting about a father-son relationship when the two are teamed as law partners.

Frankly, I have always regarded father-son law team stories as rather dull. But, then there's always hope.

The Connie Francis special and "Car 54" loom as winners. So does "Follow the Sun."

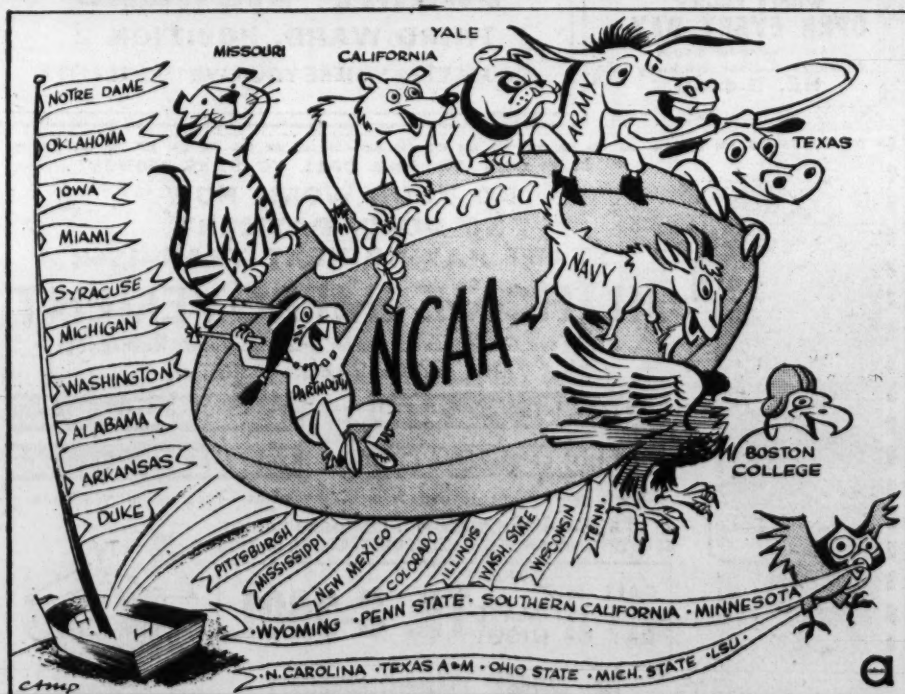

One reason I'm so high on the Connie Francis show is that this Philadelphia-born charmer is about the only girl singer in the country who has been able to hold her own in a man's world—the pop music field. If she's good enough to hold down top-rank status in television, movies and night clubs then she ought to have enough talent to manage her own show.

This will be Connie's first "very own" special, although she has appeared on the Ed Sullivan and Dick Clark programs more frequently than any other star. Several years ago, Connie, then a teen-ager with big ideas, but a "nobody" in the music business, went into a recording studio, whopped out a thing called "Who's Sorry Now?" and the nation embraced her. Everybody loved her tune. Since then she hasn't been out of work and she hasn't had to ask her parents for spending money—not once.

I'll be on the sidelines rooting for her because I think she is one of the new stars who has great possibilities.

Incidentally, Connie's guest stars are Art Carney, Eddie

MOVIE REVIEWS

3 Fine Films Open Downtown

Three unusually outstanding films are scheduled to open at the downtown theaters Friday. The rest of the movie houses are hanging onto their particular crowd-pleasers.

Two of the new ones, "The Young Doctors" and "General Della Rovere," are reviewed below, along with a teen-age-pot-boiler that opened last week too late for review. The third fine film opening Friday, "Fanny," was reviewed two weeks ago at length, and a capsule review follows in this issue.

"GENERAL DELLA ROVERE": Vittorio De Sica, Hannes Messemer, Sandra Milo. Directed by Roberto Rossellini. Produced by Morris Ergas. In Italian with English subtitles. Black and white. Rating: Adults—Excellent.

"General Della Rovere," opening Friday at the Rhodes Theater. Only discriminating and sensitive moviegoers need apply. (Sad to say, it's the first worthwhile foreign "art" film worthy of the name to appear here in a good while.)

The setting is German-occupied Northern Italy in 1943. De Sica portrays a seedy, amoral old codger who swindles money out of the families of captured Italian partisans by pretending to have influential contacts which can help free their imprisoned relatives. When the German authorities catch up with him, he is offered a chance to save his skin: he must go to prison in the guise of a certain Italian patriot, Della Rovere, and get the goods on the imprisoned partisans.

Gradually, under the influence of the courage and faith of the partisans who revere the man they think he is, De Sica begins to assume the stature of the man he is impersonating. So imperceptibly is this brought about, it is hard to say when it actually begins, and De Sica's characterization is in the nature of a masterpiece.

"General Della Rovere" is the old Rossellini at work again, a la "Open City" and "Paisan." After "Stromboli" and a few other bombolies, we were beginning to wonder if he was going to make it again. Let that segment of the public that is supposed to be crying for superior movie entertainment put up or shut up on this one.

—BILL POPE.

"THE YOUNG DOCTORS": Frederic March, Ben Gazzara, Dick Clark, Ina Balin, Eddie Albert, Edward Andrews. Produced by Stuart Millar and Lawrence Turman. Directed by Phil Karlson. Book by Arthur Hailey. Released by United Artists.

RATING: FAMILY—GOOD. This is a fine film. It tells its story with simplicity. And it is this simplicity, this directness in dealing with a doctor's perception of what life and death is all about, that is the most rewarding asset of the movie.

The action takes place in a small New York hospital, and the major characters—the old doctor and the new—are its pathologists. They are the men who try to learn about life by the study of the dead, and the destructive germs that cause death. It is definitely not the prettiest nor the most rewarding field of medicine, and many times it is the most heart-breaking.

It is a story of conflicts: a struggle between the old doctor and his new assistant; the conflict a baby faces in the struggle for life; and the fight a girl must make to desire life regardless of the pain and physical infirmities she knows she will suffer over death which is final.

In fact, the beauty of this film is the realization of the struggle man must make to maintain life—from the time he is a small baby until the time that the younger must eventually be the stronger in facing a more advanced world.

In each of the characterizations, the actors are perfectly cast. March turns in a beautiful portrayal of the elder doctor, and Gazzara is intense and sincere in the role of the younger. Dick Clark is good—and it is during one of his scenes that the film has its most emotional impact.

While this film does have its limitations, it is worthwhile in that it proves that doctors are always human beings—whose every moment must be one of truth.

"LOVE IN A GOLDFISH BOWL": Tommy Sands, Fabian, Toby Michael, Edward Andrews, John McGiver, Jan Sterling. A Jurov-Shepherd Production. Directed by Jack Sher. Paramount. Technicolor and wide screen. Rating: Family—Good.

This breezy comedy which opened Friday at the Roxy is the latest step in the development of the all-American teenage dream.

The screenplay is cleverly written and the cast, especially Sands and Edward Andrews (as Toby's father) do a more than adequate job.

The musical score is bright and the cinematography—both composition and color—is exceptional. "Goldfish Bowl" doesn't try to be a "big" movie but, with nice direction, it has done a light task well.

—BILL BORING

"FANNY": Adults/Young people—Exceptional. A perfect cast unwinds a bittersweet romantic tale of both young and old love. Flawless performances make a motion picture experience that is full of the joy and beauty of life. The finest film of the year so far.

"ROMANOFF AND JULIET": Family—Exceptional. Peter Ustinov romps through a delightful satire on love and foreign diplomacy in a bit of Technicolor spice from his play of the same name.

Lillian Gish On Movies, TV

NEW YORK (UPI)—

Lillian Gish, a fine, sensitive actress in many a stage play, still has a warm respect for the art of silent motion pictures, which first brought her fame.

"The truth is that I feel that the entire nine years I spent working with Griffith made up the real high point of my career," the star explained in her dressing room at the Belasco theater where she is appearing in the Pulitzer Prize play, "All the Way Home."

"But working with him caused almost everyone to feel that way. I remember how I enjoyed doing 'Orphans.' It was such a marvelous amalgamation of romance, drama and spectacular thrills. And Griffith was so unpredictable that there never was a dull moment."

"Did you know that I designed the costumes worn by Dorothy and myself in the picture? Actors and actresses had to provide their own costumes in those days. Griffith liked our costumes so much that he used a picture of the two of us, hand-in-hand with backs to the camera, in the advertising for the picture."

"He never missed a trick," she resumed. "In those days during rehearsals, the actors, in order to get into the mood, said whatever words they felt would be appropriate to the action. Often Griffith called the film cutter to take down some of the actors' talk to be used for subtitles on the finished print."

"As for the place of silent films in entertainment history, I'll cite a couple of things that may give you an idea. My god-child, Stacey Smith, the teen-aged daughter of actor Kent Smith, saw a screening of 'Orphans of the Storm' last summer. When she came home, she started to tell her father what the actors had done and said. Kent pointed out that she had seen a silent film. She thought for a moment, then replied, 'I never realized the actors weren't talking.'"

"And when Charles Laughton was about to direct his first film, 'Night of the Hunter,' a few years ago (I was in it), he ran off all of the old silent movies he could get his hands on for weeks before we went into rehearsal.

"Television had vitality during the early years. When it was originating live from New York, this vitality was in the atmosphere, as in the early films days. There was only one chance, and you had to do it right. Television had the excitement, the challenge."

Eileen Praises Ella As Greatest

NEW YORK—Many music experts believe that Eileen Farrell is the greatest singer alive—but Miss Farrell isn't one of them.

"Greatest living singer? That's Ella Fitzgerald," she said firmly.

Well, Ella is great, as her fans will agree, but who does Miss Farrell think is the best opera singer?

"Don't ask me," said Miss Farrell, with her infectious grin. "I never listen to opera singers!"

THIS MAY SOUND like a press agent's plotting, but it's genuine Farrell. The world-acclaimed soprano, perhaps the best voice we've got in America, is just a real gone girl when it comes to jazz.

She digs it. She loves it. In fact, when she isn't on stage at the Metropolitan Opera, or picking up $4,500 a concert for a few classical arias, you'll find her home on Staten Island, happily surrounded by husband, children and one of the finest private jazz record collections around.

"I am the original jazz buff,"

EILEEN FARRELL
"But Ella's the Greatest"

Miss Farrell admitted. "I know just about every song and voice ever recorded in jazz. I have a hundred or so favorite jazz albums and I play them constantly. My husband says the only time you can hear Eileen Farrell singing at our house is when I'm out of it. That's his only chance to play my records."

This yen for jazz isn't the only thing that makes Miss Farrell mighty unusual in the world of prima donnas.

She's friendly, frank and full of fun, as warm as a ray of sunshine.

She's a plump, pretty, 40-year-old red-haired ray of sunshine who has no trouble remembering she's really Mrs. Bob Reagan of Staten Island, mother of a 13-year-old boy named Robbie who stretches to 5 feet 10 inches, and a mischievous 7-year-old named Kathy.

"I suppose they're normal kids," said their mother. "Robbie goes around calling his father 'mean old dad' and Kathy tries on my clothing."

Both children got an early start on a musical education, but in Robbie's case it didn't take. His mother explains:

"MY SON studied the piano but he thought it was an instrument you could play without practicing. Anyhow, he's so immersed in high school work now he's not much interested in music."

Kathy, however, took to her piano lessons with gusto.

"She practices constantly,"

Miss Farrell said, "and that's good. But it's good only because she wants to. I don't believe in forcing children into music. If they have a natural talent, fine. If not, don't push—you'll only make them hate it."

Miss Farrell herself plays a mean piano—jazz piano, that is. Her pet hobby, though, is still listening to jazz, especially if Ella Fitzgerald is singing.

TV STATIC

By PATRICIA HARRISON

NATIONAL—The Fall has come finally in television and the re-runs are beginning to disappear from view... There are a lot of new names and shows in the offing... Many of them with familiar titles that will bring back happy memories... "Margie," "Hazel" and there is a chance that "The Maltese Falcon,"

George Maharis of "Route 66" coming up on the Humphrey Bogart Theater next Saturday on Channel 5, will be expanded into an hour TV series sometime in mid-winter... may find it difficult to get a hotel room if fans keep presenting him with strange gifts whenever he goes on PA tours... Latest accounts have him receiving a baby pig, a bantam rooster, an anvil and three dozen ostrich plumes (?)... Speaking of "Route 66"—its producer learned a lesson. If you are looking for an "Ethel Waters-type" there is only one thing to do—hire the original. No other but the original would do for a segment entitled "Sweet Blues."

One of the most brilliant offerings in the spectacular field later this fall should be Jerome Robbins "Ballet USA," this was the show that won such thunderous ovations in many European capitals several years ago... Robbins was the director and choreographer of that most modern American of all shows "West Side Story"...

Another terrific special should be the tribute on CBS to that great violinist—Jack Benny by such comedians as Van Cliburn, Issac Stern, Roberta Peters, Benny Goodman and Eugene Ormandy with the Philadelphia Orchestra... Look for more theatrical features at Warner Brothers to be prepared as previews for eventual television series... Of all the new titles "Car 54, Where Are You?" has an interesting ring to it... Wouldn't you like to know where it is?

Steve Allen will have his mother, veteran performer Bell Montrose, on his Oct. 4, TV show... On the international scene: "Rin-Tin-Tin" is currently the biggest hit on Roman TV... A word for the children to give their parents, "NO"—TV does not hurt their eyes, or so a recent survey in England showed...

Caldwell Signs Unknown Negro

Erskine Caldwell, Georgia's far known author, has chosen an unknown Georgia playwright to script a Broadway show for him.

The unknown is Ray McIver, Negro teacher in the public schools of Atlanta, amateur actor, apprentice playwright.

In 1941 McIver made a short play out of a four-page story by Caldwell, entitled "The Fly in the Coffin." The author of "Tobacco Road" and "God's Little Acre" read the piece, liked it, and immediately signed McIver up to dramatize two of his other stories, "Candy Man Beechum" and "Kneel to the Rising Sun."

The plays, presently entitled "A Quiet Southern Evening with Erskine Caldwell," are scheduled to open during the 1962-1963 Broadway season.

The stories deal with some of the problems some white and Negro people inherit and create living together in some Southern towns.

"We should like to see 'A Quiet Southern Evening' open in Atlanta, Ga., where both Mr. Caldwell and I have friends," McIver said. "And we would like to have Juano Hernandez, John W. Bubbles, Sidney Poitier and Gene McGowan head the casts. But I am a dreamer. There are many other actors, both in Atlanta and New York, who could make the 'Evening' a joyous delight and a theatrical pleasure anywhere."

Monday Viewers Offered Little Other Than Paar, Bible

Monday night offers very little in the way of really hopeful entertainment this week among the regular network offerings with the possible exception of the old standby—The Jack Paar Show.

However, viewers equipped to pick up WETV's Channel 30 have the chance to see an interesting show at 9:30.

On a program called "Biblical Masterpieces," Dr. Bernard Boyd of the University of North Carolina explores the relation of the Psalm 139's view of God to others expressed elsewhere in the Bible. He discusses the influences that shaped the construction of the poem of praise, and the emotions that inspired it.

8-8:30 (Ch. 5) — Cara Williams has a script tailored to her talents on this week's Pete and Gladys repeat.

Through a series of contrived mishaps, she's alone, dressed as a cockney panhandler, on the street. She has no money but she must show up at a fancy restaurant to join her husband for an important dinner party. The situation gives her ample opportunity for some fine clowning.

9-9:30 (Ch. 5)—One of these rare characters, a young singer with a genuine voice, guests on The Spike Jones Show tonight. He's Frank D'Rone, a protege of Nat "King" Cole. He will sing two songs—and he knows how. Comic Tommy Noonan is the other guest artist. He'll join Spike and Helen Grayco in some of the usual satire. This week's targets: toy assembling and movies.

9:30-10 (Ch. 5)—Pat Carroll has fun as a fresh-from-Iowa girl in Hollywood on The Ann Sothorn Show repeat. The script was written for her and she made the most of it. She is cast as a naive secretary, to a Hollywood hero, who carries a tool kit to fix anything that needs fixing. It is a wonderful role.

10:30-11 (Ch. 5)—Brenner repeats the dilemma facing a cop (James Broderick) when he finds out that a good friend is a crime suspect. Then the cop must further readjust when he unwillingly realizes that his buddy is guilty. George Grizzard is the friend.

Playhouse '90 Offers Good Taut Drama

Tuesday evening's TV tubes will be brightened considerably with an excellent Playhouse 90 rerun, two fine late movies, and Jack Paar in Berlin.

"The Rank and File," Rod Serling's 1959 taut drama about labor unions will be repeated on Playhouse 90. Serling's labor boss closely resembles at least one front page name, and he's first seen during a Senate committee investigation. There are many fine and often savagely penetrating scenes in the play that stars Van Heflin, Luther Adler, Charles Bronson and Carl Benton Reid.

Channel 5 has scheduled the drama at 9:30.

THE SPECIAL movies being offered are competing with each other and Paar, all with the same starting time.

Channel 2 has "Undercurrent" with Robert Taylor, Katherine Hepburn and Robert Mitchum in a heavy drama backed up by a haunting score based on Brahms' "Third Symphony."

Simultaneously, Channel 5 offers the psychological study of men and women fighting for both their lives and sanity aboard a "Life Boat." William Bendix and Talullah Bankhead are among the many stars directed by Alfred Hitchcock in the movie based on a John Steinbeck story. The show is brilliantly acted.

TV Season Opens New Goodies

Foy and Tab Hunter. How's that for a guest list?

Connie will come in bright and cheerful at 9 p.m. Wednesday on Channel 11.

"FOLLOW THE SUN," which begins on Channel 11 at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, will have a passel of young people going to the post. Headquartered in Hawaii, two writers, impersonated by Ben Gregory and Eric Jason, will have some interesting tales to tell on TV. The writers, it seems, have a contempt for bosses but they want to live like millionaires—even when they're broke. Sound interesting?

Gigi Perreau is secretary to the pair.

"I'VE SAID ENOUGH about 'Car 54, Where Are You,' except that I think the title should read 'Car 54, Where Art Thou?' Nat Hiken has prepared this comedy series. He wrote for Fred Allen, Jack Benny and Phil Silvers. Every key on the typewriter he touches seems to bring forth laughter.

Get a load of the faces of the two characters who will star—Fred Gwynne and Joe E. Ross. Look familiar? Certainly. They were on the Phil Silvers show, among others. I can't look them in the eye without breaking up. "Car 54" cranks up Sunday at 8:30 p.m.—Channel 2. I hope it doesn't run out of gas.

BY THE WAY, "Maverick"

And, just as an afterthought, the NCAA Football series starts Saturday. "Twilight Zone" begins its new season (but not starts a new season Sunday—if for only a short while. Kaiser, I heard just the other day, is pulling out as sponsor of the series "Maverick" moves to the 6:30 p.m. spot to make way for a new program on Sept. 17. Shortly after the new season opens with new episodes starring Jack Kelly, Warner Bros. will start re-running old episodes featuring James Garner. What has happened, Jack Warner?

officially—don't ask me why) on Friday. The first show—"The Two"—is about a boy and girl who are left alone on earth after "The Bomb" has been detonated. Richard Boone begins his new series with several shows directed by, of all people, Richard Boone.

Pointing ahead, Ernie Kovacs has fired up a stogie for his debut Sept. 21.

But, more about that, and other things, later.

Great Movies Listed Among Thursday's Highlights

Talk about big names on the tube! Thursday's late and early movies offer some of the finest acting talent ever turned out by Hollywood. There is little else to recommend the day though, other than the gradually decreasing number of reruns.

"Great Ghost Stories" (Channel 2 — 9:30 p.m.) and "The Untouchables" (Channel 11 — 9:30 p.m.) are about the crop except for the "Jack Paar Show" and the lot of good movies.

Channel 11 kicks off "big movie" day with the touching "Enchanted Cottage" starring Robert Young and Dorothy McGuire at 9:30 a.m.

That one is followed at 12:15 p.m. by Channel 2 with a showing of the Academy Award winning "Boys Town" that starred Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney in moving performances.

Channel 2 also offers a good late show Thursday, "This Above All," with Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine. That one starts at 11:15 p.m.

Beginning at the same time, Channel 5 offers strong competition to the other stations with an old Henry Fonda - Bette Davis shocker called "Jezebel."

Miss Davis is at her best in a portrayal of a vicious Southern belle. It's a fine film.

Getting away from the movies, educational TV station WGTV will present another in the series of "Biblical Masterpieces" on Channel 8 at 10 p.m. The "Song of Songs" will be featured in an explanation of one of the most musical books of the Bible.

The Donna Reed Show begins its fourth season on TV Thursday at 8 p.m., featuring Jimmy and Johnny Darren and pretty Shelley Fabares as the guests kicking off the premiere show.

Also a possibility for amusing viewing is the "My Three Sons" show starring Fred MacMurray, Tim Considine, and William Frawley. It concerns a young teacher experimenting with new teaching techniques, who makes life rather uncomfortable for young Considine.

Signs Autographs

Dick Clark, one of the most cooperative autograph-signers that show business has ever known, estimates that he has signed over 350,000 autographs in his career.

Worth Knowing

We were reading that scientists believe that there has been no change in the amount of water on earth and in its atmosphere since the dawn of time.

Although water is forever changing its form and constantly moving from lakes and rivers to the seas, and evaporating into the atmosphere, from which it returns to earth again in the form of rain and snow, there isn't one iota lost in its vast travel. The scientists say that apparently we still have all the same water that was given to the earth in the very beginning. One scientific wag says that in the glass of water you drink today are most likely molecules from the water in which a cave man took a bath eons ago.

Even when it goes through the process wherein plants use water to form organic material, such as berries, cellulose, sugar, etc., these compounds follow a natural return route through consumption, use, combustion, or decomposition, back to water which is formed when the hydrogen unites again with oxygen from the plant material or from the air. So, as we see in all nature, it's an endless cycle.

In our business we too form an endless cycle with conscientious policies which we hope makes true the saying, "Once a customer, always a customer." We know that to keep it going we must continue an endless cycle of giving top satisfaction.

Circus, Film Classics and Drama Premiere for Good TV Friday

Television Friday is notable for the debut of a new poor man's Ed Sullivan show, three all-time great film classics, a live high school football game, and the premiere show of the "Twilight Zone's" new fall series.

A trained giraffe is a rarity and TV viewers will have the opportunity to see one (whose name is Lucky) in the opening program of "International Show-Karenina" (12:15 p.m.) with Frederick March, Greta Garbo, and Freddie Bartholomew, and "A Star Is Born," with Judy Garland and James Mason at 11:15 p.m.

The third movie classic presented Friday is on WGTV (Channel 8) at 9:30 p.m. It is "Spartacus."

Not to be confused with the recent movie of the same name, this was one of the first silent movie spectaculars. It was produced in 1914 in Italy.

Finally, of interest to people able to convert to UHF viewing, WETV (Channel 30) continues

The much heralded premiere show on "Twilight Zone" will be seen at 10 p.m. This is the show called "The Two," starring Elizabeth Montgomery and Charles Bronson, and written by Rod Serling.

Channel 2 has two of the movie classics Friday, "Anna

Reginald Rose Pens New Saturday Show

The big events for Saturday are many and the season for fall really begins to look up—at least on television.

Three of television's top creative talents—playwright Reginald Rose, producer Herbert Brodtkin, and star E. G. Marshall—have joined forces to present a new drama series, "The Defenders," premiering on Channel 5 at 8:30 p.m.

Unlike other courtroom dramas now on television, the heroes—a father-son team of lawyers—will not win every case. The scripts, all original stories written especially for the series, will deal with serious, often controversial themes, such as custody of children, perjury, mercy killing and abortion.

IMPROVEMENT! That is the keynote for the San Diego Charge ers who open the 1961 American Football League Season against the Dallas Texans with Channel 11 televising the game at 3:30 p.m.

ROBERT ABERNATHY, NBC News' Washington correspondent, is the on-the-air editor of NBC-TV's "Update." The show is a new weekly news program designed especially for teenagers, and it premieres Saturday.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL football coverage from here in the city continues at 7:15 p.m. Saturday on WETV's Channel 30 and WABE-FM, exclusively. The games will be broadcast

George Burns to Host 'New Series' First Show

A panorama of programs embracing musical variety, dramatic actualities and special projects — will be shown on Cr. 2 at 10 p.m. Sunday.

The new series, Show of the Week, will premiere next Sunday with "The Laughmakers," an examination of 200 years of American humor. George Burns will narrate the presentation, to be produced and directed by Don Hyatt from a script by Richard Hanser and with original music composed and conducted by Robert Russell Bennett.

Other programs in the series, many of which have already been taped, include, in addition to "The Laughmakers," "Happy With the Blues," a musical biography of composer Harold Arlen, and "Merrily We Roll automobile, to be narrated by Groucho Marx.

BRETT HALSEY and Barry Coe have co-starring roles along with Gigi Perreau and Gary Lockwood in a new comedy-adventure series making its debut on Channel 11 at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. It's called Follow the Sun.

The men portray free-lance writers, who, though eager to live well, have an ingrained horror of hard work. It is an hour-long show.

THIS IS ALSO the night for the hilarious "Car 54, Where Are You?" to make its bow — a strange show, one about cops without robbers, police realism without violence, plus the human comedy that occurs in the precinct and private lives of policemen. (Ch. 2, 8:30 p.m.)

Life Is Peachy—Borgnine

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD—“After a while,” said Ernie Borgnine, “you say ‘What’s the use of getting mad — as long as they spell the name right?’ I was visiting Ernie and wife Katie Jurado in their hotel suite in Rome where they had just completed their roles in “Barabbas” for Dino De Laurentiis. They denied marriage trouble, and seemed as peaceful as two such excitable people can be.

“I’ve been here since January,” said Ernie who sprang to fame in the Oscar-winning “Marty” several years ago. “I’m starting my fourth picture in Rome—first was ‘Black City,’ then ‘The Last Judgment,’ ‘Barabbas,’ and now ‘The Italian Brigands,’ with Katy.”

“I’ve been here five months,” grumbled Mrs. Borgnine. “In two more months I go home, no matter what. I have to go back to see my kids. I hope they remember me. Ernesto, he won’t be home until Christmas.”

“I see you don’t call him by your favorite pet name—‘Big Bull,’” I said. The Mexican actress smiled. “Bull in Italy means ‘Cuckold.’ You can see why I had to drop it.”

The Borgnines are living high, wide and well in Italy. They have been given the use of a chauffeured car, and on days off they drive all over Italy whence Ernie’s family migrated to America.

“We’ve had a wonderful time shopping,” said the actor. “I’ve bought five suits, a few short jackets, I’m having some shirts made, and shoes—seven pairs, to order, in Florence. They fit like slippers. Katy has bought ‘bright silks and cloths and coats and blouses and shoes.’”

I usually get slightly ill in Italy because of the rich food. But neither of the Borgnines would agree with me on the latter. “Italian food is good,” said Ernie. “They are not gourmets. Italians are such hard-working people that food is secondary. And it’s quite different from so-called Italian food in America. There are no hot peppers, no garlic, they abhor spices. They don’t know what meatballs are in Italy, they have no time for fancy cooking. They eat, sleep, and go back to work.”

IN ITALY I have always been wary of the water. “But the water here is marvelous,” said Katy. “You can drink it off the street, off a fountain. Rome is famous for its water, there are springs all around.”

“Now in Mexico,” said Ernie, “where I made ‘Vera Cruz,’ the water was bad. Better to drink beer there.” Katy, who comes from Mexico, sniffed and said, “personally, I find Italian food too bland. I like spices, and chili and peppers.”

Borgnine plays Lucius, a Christian slave, helper of the gladiators in “Barabbas.” “Katy has a beautiful part; it’s bigger than mine,” he said. “I play Sarah, the only bad woman in the picture,” Katy added. Silvano Mangano is the leading lady, with Anthony Quinn as Barabbas. Mangano’s brother plays Christ.

“WE HAVE TWO real

“I won’t be really happy,” concluded Katy, “until I get back to my two children in Mexico. My son will be 17 in October. My daughter has just turned 15 and is ready for her introduction to society. Just imagine, I was here working in the picture when they were both rushed to the hospital for operations. I lost a lot of weight worrying. Never again will I stay so long away from them.”

“She’ll come to Hollywood when I have to work there,” said Ernie, rather firmly. “Of course,” said Katy.

as financially successful as the two theater groups which operated through the summer.

Maybe this is to be the charmed year for live theater in Atlanta. Let us hope so!

Both Theatre Under the Stars and The Academy Theatre made financial profits this summer. The Under the Stars group made its first profit in its nine-year history of financial drought. The Academy presented its first Shakespeare Festival and made a small profit on that.

TRYOUTS for Theatre Atlanta's second production, "Three Men on a Horse" will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Lottie Hentschel's Studio, 33 Peachtree Place, NE.

ALSO on the "open" lists are vacancies in the Atlanta Concert Band. Both male and female musicians are eligible and there is no age limit. Rehearsals are held every Tuesday evening, and the musicians are non-professional. Additional information can be obtained by calling CE. 3-4768.

Amazing Creamy Pomade Tones Down Grayness Hair Looks Young Again

There are rich rewards today, for alert men and women . . . who look young. Don't let gray hair handicap you by making you look older than you are. Not when it's so easy and natural to use Herbold Pomade. You probably use a hair dressing anyway, so why not change to Herbold Pomade—the advanced, modern hair cream that really improves your hair, as it tones down grayness and gives your hair the young looking color it had before it turned gray. Herbold Pomade adds color to gray, streaked, off-color hair so gradually, and blends it so perfectly "without changing your natural color," that no one can tell you are using anything but a fine hair dressing. It's real easy to do at home. Rub a little Herbold Pomade into your hair (as you do any hair dressing), comb it—that's all! Do this daily, until grayness is no longer visible. Then 2 or 3 times a week to keep it that way. No long complicated directions, no patch tests, no mixing, no timing, no mess or bother. No confusion about shades. Just one Herbold Pomade adds the right color for your hair. Not a coal tar dye, tint or rinse. That's why you never have a dyed, artificial look, or a drastic sudden change in your appearance—or grayness next to the scalp. So if the years have stolen the natural oils and color from your hair, leaving it dry, dull, drab, streaked or a lifeless gray—start using Herbold Pomade today to replace the lost color and oils so vital to the youthful, healthy good looks of your hair. In 1 to 3 weeks your hair will look young again, without grayness. And regular use will keep it that way for as long as you like . . . the rest of your life, if you choose! As you get older, friends and others will think of you as one of those fortunate men or women who seems to never get old and gray. Herbold Laboratory guarantees it!

Dick Rodgers Pens Novel Stage Musical

NEW YORK (UPI)—The title Taylor musical planned for the new season is "No Strings."

Richard Kiley and the Negro singer, Diahann Carroll, will have the leading roles in a love story set in Paris. An American author and an American model are involved.

This will be the first musical for which Rodgers will supply both the music and lyrics since he broke into the show scene 40 years ago. One of the unusual features of this show is that the orchestra will not be in the pit, as customary, but on the stage. Rehearsals start in December.

Youth Explores Stage Mysteries

By STUART CULPEPPER

What is this enigma in man that will drive him into such wacky, incomprehensible, cabalistic, incredible, often impenetrable and unrewarding, always unpredictable goal as "crashing the theater."

It is obviously a challenge, a highly prized cabal, a cult of mysticism practiced by only a relative few.

FOR ONE handsome young Atlantan, the rewards are in the thrill of "being able to live another life."

Jerome Lawrence (Michael) Houle, III, once a blonde, now turning mysteriously red-headed, is a 16-year-old off to an almost whirlwind start as an actor.

"MAYBE SOME of it comes from my mother. She taught dramatics at the University of Illinois for a while."

With a flashing smile and twinkle of his smoky blue eyes, he also admitted that some of the urge could be credited to the "laughs of an audience and maybe the welling of applause on curtain calls."

Jerry ("Mike" to his family) has just finished shooting a 25-minute film for the Georgia Center for Continuing Education in Athens. Before that he was featured in the successful Theatre Under the Stars production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "King and I."

Prior to these acting successes, Jerry was last year featured in Theatre Atlanta's very fine "The Innocents." He also had a small part in "The Ponder Heart."

ACTUALLY an understudy for the role of Miles in "The Innocents," Jerry played the part in three out of eight performances and did a creditable job of acting.

Also, this past summer, he was a photo model for Coca-Cola and his grinning mug was plastered up for all of Atlanta to see. Ironically, by the time some of his friends spotted it and told him about it, the billboard was gone and Jerry never saw it.

Relatively short (5'6"), and definitely on the negative side of fat (125 lbs.), Jerry considers his role in "The King and I" to have been a great part of the elusive event called "luck."

Auditioning for the part of the young prince in the play, Jerry was "a horrible flop."

He thought so, anyway. So did his mother. It was the kind of moment when the tension is drained to let the tears flow and the faces redden.

The word from Producer-Director Eric Mattson was: "Don't call us. We'll call you."

A few days later, Mattson called. Weeks later Jerry was a small star among many in a show that left critics grasping and snatching for superlatives.

There were flaws in the performance to be sure, but primarily in a difficult singing part for which he was unsure of himself. (As he said of his own performance, "There was a time when I think the orchestra and I might have been doing different numbers.")

His acting showed considerable technique, and a feeling for making a small scene his own that seemed to grow each night.

His director in the film just completed has referred to Jerry as a fine, sensitive young actor.

It seems as though he might be going someplace in the business, but makes him want to?

His slightly devilish look (coming from subtly upturned eyebrows and pointed ears) sobering into a frown, he thought about it:

"I think, maybe it's the thrill of being able to relive—or live for the first time—another life."

JERRY HOULE IN A HURRY
Actor Leaves the Stage for a Triumph

To know and feel somebody else's emotions and then turn around and say to everybody out in the audience, "This is what this person is like." If they can understand from what you do, then you're happy."

His point was easy to see—the ability to create life, if only superficially.

For all of his occasional seriousness in analyzing himself or acting, Jerry is very much the typical teen-ager.

Active in his Catholic church, he enjoys swimming, fixing things (or trying to), partying, dancing, skiing, reading science-fiction and comedies, and most of all, perhaps, sports cars like the one his family has just bought—and he has just decided to consider his very own.

HE IS typical even to the point of admitting being more

"It wasn't exactly the style of living I'm used to," he laughed. "But it was fun!"

Jerry has one younger brother, Tom (a fine-looking husky young junior high footballer), two younger sisters, Maureen and Mary Beth (who are as cute and personable as any of his stage sisters), and a so-far-unnamed relation on the way.

HIS MOTHER and father, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome L. Houle Jr., 133 Laurel Forest Circle, NE, are intensely interested in and justifiably proud of their son's achievements and possible future in this field.

"My biggest problem," admits Mom Houle, "is in trying not to tell him too much."

With the devotion and interest of his family behind him, plus his own talents and ambition, young Jerry Houle is another of Atlanta's youth to whom the city may point with pride—even if he is a Yankee migrant to the South.

Big Topps Squashes Heckler

By ALAN WEXLER

One night last week big (6' 8", 320 lbs.) Roy Topps sat on the little Zebra Lounge stage trying to keep his packed audience in a good humor with music and laughs while facing a female heckler trying to give him a bad time.

During his act a variety of songs, and not exactly for-the-kids-jokes—the woman found it quite to her liking to interrupt him.

Topps would start to play his piano and lead the audience into a song when the heckler would find it interesting to throw out a comment for more attention.

But the big man wasn't to be denied. Just as fast as the woman shouted, the well-known entertainer popped right back at her with a few choice words that kept her face a bright shade of red throughout the show—except when she was talking.

"I guess after you've been in show business as long as I have you get plenty of practice in using a quick wit when you're facing an audience like this one," he said during one of his breaks.

Topps is one performer who should know.

He started in show business 15 years ago. Not only has he played in Atlanta's Zebra Lounge six other times during his career, but he's been the top entertainer in the area each time he's strutted up to the little stage in the Zebra.

Crowds seem to love his jokes, music, and simple talk, making Zebra Lounge manager Buddy McMahan pretty happy. Said

ROY TOPPS

McMahan: "Roy is the best crowd drawer we've ever had here at the Zebra. We're really glad to get him."

Other recent appearances for Topps have been in Nassau, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Dayton, Ohio, and Joplin, Mo., where he played at the Holiday Inn, owned by New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle.

A one-time athlete and former singer for the Robert Shaw Collegiate Choral, Topps seems to exert little energy during his act, although he works to keep his audience entertained.

He says no two acts are the same, and a member in the audience watching his performances can attest to the truth of that statement.

His present engagement is for eight weeks with an option to stay longer if the crowds keep showing up like they usually do for the likeable Topps.

Whether or not he will set a record like he did in 1960 with his 14-week stand, Topps is one entertainer who is sure to get his share of the entertainment dollar in this area.

Records

From Mozart to Harry Belafonte

MOZART: Symphonies No. 35 in D Major, No. 41 in C Major. Columbia Symphony Orchestra conducted by Bruno Walter. Columbia (stereo).

Mozart's Haffner and Jupiter symphonies are given affectionate, warm and altogether moving performances by Walter, and his California orchestra has never sounded better.—GRG.

SCHUMANN: Symphony No. 4 in D Minor; Manfred Overture. Philharmonic Symphony of New York conducted by Leonard Bernstein. Columbia (stereo).

Using the too-rarely heard original scoring of this symphony, Bernstein again proves his mastery of the romantic style.—GRG.

HEARTS IN ¾ TIME: Boston Pops Orchestra conducted by Arthur Fiedler. RCA Victor (stereo).

Fiedler, who once played the fiddle in the orchestra of one of the Vienna Strauss brothers, conducts a dozen waltzes in the sentimental "gemutlich" Vienna manner. The Pops musicians sound off happily in melodies ranging from the waltz scene in "Faust" to the Danube Waves waltz (Al Jolson made it popular as the Anniversary Waltz) all the way to "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'" from Oklahoma.—GRG.

JUMP UP CALYPSO: Harry Belafonte with orchestra, chorus, and steel band. RCA Victor (stereo).

This is Belafonte's first calypso album in six years of recording best sellers and, with the tremendous success of his first such album, it is curious that he should wait so long to do another.

The recording and performance are both superb, and for Belafonte fans, it is a "must." The material is all new but the approach is the same fresh and exuberant style that marks most of the entertainer's performances. —H. S. C.

YOUNG VOTERS LEAGUE OF GEORGIA

405 BONA ALLEN BLDG. JA. 2-1275. ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

WHO WE ARE:

THE YOUNG VOTERS LEAGUE OF GEORGIA WAS CHARTERED SEPT. 13, 1957 by a group of young law students from different areas of the state. Our objective is to operate an association of members for the guidance of young people to encourage them to take interest and become active in the political life of their local, state and National governments. To encourage them to register and to vote in all public elections; to conduct educational programs looking toward their understanding of local, state and national governments; to promote legislation for their assistance and benefit insofar as their political welfare is concerned.

WHAT WE ARE FOR:

Our political objective is to endorse and support qualified political candidates for public office; to keep political communication lines open to all factions.

We do not support political parties, or political philosophies.

Our educational objective is to encourage dedicated speakers to go into the shops and schools and outline the necessity of young people becoming more active in the affairs of their government.

Our primary objective is to encourage young people to register and to vote, to override the apathy and indifference of potential voters toward their government, to awaken the people to the moral obligations which lie at the basis of all good governing bodies and upon which rests the liberty of the whole nation.

Our greatest objective is to make democracy work in Georgia, to make all citizens conscious of their government and their government conscious of them.

Our ideal objective is to create a public image of confidence and trust in the objective of the Young Voters League in our work for the common good.
